FRANCE AND GERMANY HAVE DECLARED WAR

Official Announcement Made in Paris and Berlin—Wild Excitement in Paris—German Government Fixes Maximum Prices for Food.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, August 4.—Germany is at war with France. This was officially announced today by Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg. Diplomatic relations between the two countries have been severed.

The Chancellor gave this statement to the International News Service: "Germany considers that a state of war exists between Germany and France owing to the latter's encroachment on German territory."

The Chancellor asserted that this was not a declaration of war against France but no further action by Germany is necessary. It is the desire of the Kaiser that France shall be the one to declare war.

German troops have seized all the railroads of Western Poland, driving back steadily the Russian troops who oppose their advance. Bridges destroyed by the Russians as they fell back are being reconstructed by German engineers. Warsaw will be invested within a short time and then the German land and sea forces will co-operate in an attack on St. Petersburg.

It is believed here that the Russian court and government will soon withdraw to Moscow.

Three important railroad junctions in Poland were captured by the German troops without and desperate resistance being offered. The Reichstag met today to vote supplies for the war with all the parties in complete unity. Even the Social Democrats, who normally oppose war, threw their support to the measure.

The government today issued a proclamation fixing the maximum price of food and other life necessities. This action was taken to check merchants from demanding exorbitant prices for commodities.

All shopkeepers that refuse to take paper money, insisting upon gold or silver, will be closed forthwith.

It was officially stated that instructions had been sent to the German ambassador to France to demand his passports at once.

Berlin today presents a different picture than it did on Sunday. Then the minds were concentrated for the most part on the certain loss they were to suffer because of the war. But today knowing that Germany had before her a terrific struggle against the big powers of Europe, the people go about with a new air of national dignity and pride.

The wave of national patriotism that rolled over here on Saturday and which receded Sunday, is now rolling back with increased power.

German reservists are arriving here by the thousands and their appearance on the streets is greeted with frenzied cheers. Very few of the tourists who were in the large towns of Germany up to Saturday are left.

All who could embarked immediately on trains for the border countries. However there are in Berlin today more than a thousand visitors who have no present hope of getting out, as all train service except that for the soldiers, has been suspended.

Paris, Aug. 4.—War between Germany and France has officially been declared. This announcement was made here today.

Baron von Schoen, the German ambassador left here at midnight for Berlin. Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador will represent Germany's interests while the war continues. U. S. Consul General Thackeray will act for the German consul general.

All Paris is wild with enthusiasm over the declaration of Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, that England will protect France in case a German fleet attacks her shores. All believe that within a few hours Great Britain will be definitely allied with France.

The crisis in the relations with Germany and France came to a climax on Monday when Baron von Schoen presented Premier Viviani with a note from Berlin stating that in consequence of the alleged flights of French aviators over Germany and Belgium, Germany considered herself at war with France.

M. Viviani denied that France has taken the initiative and reminded Baron von Schoen of Germany's aggressive acts on the frontier.

Ambassador von Schoen after presenting the note returned to the embassy and notified the entire staff of the embassy, the German consulate and the Bavarian legation to depart. As a result of this action Premier Viviani, who is also acting as foreign minister, requested the German government to hand M. Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, his passports.

All shops and offices were closed today after the official announcement was made that war had been declared between Germany and France. Soldiers passing through the streets were cheered. The crowds were so great that taxicabs had to discontinue their service.

Troops were on duty at all the railroad stations to prevent rioting among the stranded foreigners striving to get accommodations.

The entire press was enthusiastic for war today. They declared that the reported incursions of German troops at Longwy and Cirey were attempts to provoke a declaration of war from France.

"Barbarians' acts of barbarism" is one description given to Germany's aggression by a Paris newspaper.

Americans in Paris acting as commercial agents for German houses made a special request today to Ambassador Herrick for protection, fearing that the waging of war may result in violence against any persons having relations of any kind with Germans.

GERMANY REJECTS BRITISH ULTIMATUM

Refuses to Assure Belgium's Neutrality and Official Reports From Belgium Say, Has Declared War on That Country.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 4.—The special correspondent of the Daily News at Brussels telegraphs this afternoon: "I learn officially at the ministry of war that Germany declared war on Belgium this morning."

London, Aug. 4.—The British government has sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding that its troops be withdrawn from Belgium by midnight.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—It is semi-officially stated that Germany has decided to reject the ultimatum from England demanding assurances of Belgium's neutrality.

London, Aug. 4.—Great Britain has sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding that she withdraw her troops from Belgium by midnight and give assurances that she will respect the neutrality of the Belgians.

All galleries of the house of commons were crowded this afternoon when parliament resumed its session, expecting to hear from the government the tidings that it had decided upon war.

One of the first announcements made was that King George had called out the army reserves and the territorial forces.

Rapidly rushing its work, the house of commons passed in five minutes all outstanding notes, amounting to more than $500,000,000.

With financial matters out of the way the house then took up consideration of the foreign situation. Tense interest reigned as Premier Asquith arose to make his long expected statement, and no sound was heard in the chamber as he made known the fact that an ultimatum expired at midnight.

The premier stated that Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, had sent to the British ambassador in Berlin a telegram informing him of the appeal from King Albert of Belgium for diplomatic intervention.

He proceeded to state that Belgium had categorically refused to sanction "a flagrant violation of the laws of nations" and then announced that the German government had been asked to give a satisfactory reply by midnight on the question of Belgian neutrality.

"The British government," said Premier Asquith, "has requested assurance that the neutrality of Belgium be respected by Germany and has asked an immediate reply. The German ministry has notified Belgium that as that country had declined the well intentioned offer of Germany it is regretted it would have to be necessary to carry it out by force of arms."

The premier of the Belgian government has informed England that Belgium territory had been violated.

After making his statement on the foreign situation, Premier Asquith produced the king's proclamation calling out the army, including reserves and territorials.

Continuing the premier said that Germany had assured Belgium that it would compensate her for any damage she might suffer by the movement of troops across Belgian territory, and then said:

"The British government cannot regard that as in any way satisfactory. We must protect Belgium's neutrality to prevent what means to her a question of life or death—the advance of troops through Belgium."

Premier Asquith then read a telegram sent to Sir Edward Grey from the German foreign secretary through the German ambassador. It read: "Please dispel any distrust that may subsist on the part of the British government regarding our intentions by repeating most positively that in case of an armed conflict with Belgium, Germany will under no pretense whatever annex Belgian territory."

The reading of this telegram brought shouts of derision from the whole House.

The telegram further gave assurances of Germany's plan not to take Belgian territory, adding that German troops could not be expected to place her army in a position to be attacked by and French troops which might cross Belgium and Germany therefore has disregarded Belgium's protest.

Chancellor Lloyd asked if the question of the unemployment was receiving government consideration and if the scheme would be put in immediate operation.

Premier Asquith announced that the government was preparing a scheme for the distribution of food and hoped it would be completed in a day or two.

Brussels, Aug. 4.—Germans have invaded Dutch Limburg and the town is in a state of siege, according to a proclamation issued by the Antwerp Burgomaster today.

JAPAN WILL AID ENGLAND

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Tokyo, August 4.—Japan will aid England if the war spreads to the Far East and that government is involved in it. Semi-official announcement to this effect was made at the foreign office today.

SWEDEN WILL FIGHT FOR NEUTRALITY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Stockholm, Aug. 4.—Germany and Russia both made inquiries on Sunday as to whether Sweden would remain neutral in the present war crisis. The German note was brief, demanding to know just where Sweden stood. The ministers today declined to say what reply was given but they are preparing to defend the nation's neutrality. Sweden it is believed will follow the example of Belgium in refusing aid to Germany if she received an ultimatum similar to that addressed by Germany to Belgium.

MISSING TREASURE SHIP SAFE AT BAR HARBOR

Kronprinzessin Cecilie Was Only 900 Miles From Plymouth When Orders Were Received to Make Nearest American Port—Afraid of British Warships.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Bar Harbor, Maine, Aug. 4.—

Variously reported to have been captured by English war vessels and to have arrived at three different foreign ports, the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, the $10,600,000 will of the wispy treasure ship, put into this port and anchored at six o'clock this morning. The liner's arrival caused great excitement here. Hundreds of people gathered on the beach, and an hour later when the captain came ashore, several thousand people lined the beach.

The Cecilie's commander hurried to a telephone office to get in touch with the liner's officials. The captain said he wanted to land his passengers at once if it was not contrary to the customs of immigration laws of this country at this time.

He was anxious to get in touch with government officials who could settle this point.

The captain would make no statement as to how far he had proceeded on his voyage across the Atlantic before he turned back to the United States. He would not state if he had sighted a foreign warship and had been chased into port.

The liner is at anchor a quarter of a mile off shore. Only the captain's boat had come ashore up to 8 o'clock. Passengers could be seen grouped on the liner's deck.

Among the few passengers to land in Bar Harbor were Henry R. Penell and Walter S. Hammond, both of Portland, Maine. They talked with an International News Service correspondent.

"We were 900 miles off Plymouth last Friday night," said Mr. Penell, who is a Portland business man. "I am a wireless operator from the Plymouth office of the steamship company for the captain to make the nearest American port at once."

"The captain was warned to use the greatest speed and to be on the lookout at all times for English battleships."

With $10,600,000 of gold on board you can imagine what excitement there was among the passengers. It was 10 o'clock at night when we received the wireless from Plymouth. The engines slowed down and we slowly turned around and started for the nearest American port.

"It was foggy all the way over. Every light on the ship except the two green and red lights were turned out and for four nights we steamed through rough seas, fog and darkness wondering what American port we were going to land at. You can imagine what a thrilling voyage it was."

"Late last night we arrived in Bar Harbor and anchored. I came off in one of the early boats but I shall get back on the ship at once as all passengers were directed to stay on the ship."

The liner carries about 150 first class, 354 second class and 950 steerage passengers and 2,500 mail sacks. The local postoffice was of fered the mail for forwarding and telegraphed to Washington for instructions.

On Saturday, August first, passengers noticed on the chart a poster saying: "Returning very far north."

The captain told the passengers that in case all the lights were extinguished not to get excited, that they were still going very far north. On Saturday the top of her stacks were painted black to look like the Olympic. On Sunday, August 2, the weather was very good. In the night the ship was darkened, not a light on her. A thick fog came up in the early evening. The captain did not reduce speed nor sound his horn, passengers say. The ship was kept dark. The passengers were badly frightened and a committee of men went to the captain requesting him to start his horn and reduce speed, which he did. On Monday, August 3, the thick fog held and the vessel was still going very fast, but her horn was blowing.

Late that day the liner was chased by an unknown vessel, presumably a British warship. The chase was kept up until the liner put in here at midnight. Passengers sent telegrams and mail telling friends where they are. Only newspaper men were admitted on board ship.

The announcement that the liner would return to America came like a thunderbolt to the passengers. The smoking room was crowded on Friday evening and a dance was in progress on deck. Suddenly Captain Polack appeared in the smoking room.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I have an announcement to make. War has broken out between France, England, Russia and Germany. We are going back to America. You gentlemen please assist me in allaying the fears of the women. I don't think there is any danger. We have plenty of coal."

The vessel's position at that time was latitude 45 north, longitude 35 west. Captain Polack steered his ship far to the north to escape the usual line of traffic.

New York, Aug. 4.—Since she left

New York a week ago, the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, has been the subject of no little speculation. With her cargo of $10,600,000 gold and worth approximately $5,000,000, she was regarded as a great prize for a warring nation.

From the time war seemed most imminent there were many rumors as to the liner's whereabouts. On Sunday she was reported making direct for a German port. Later that night reports had her north of Malin Head, Ireland, rounding the North coast of the British Isles in an endeavor to make her way through the North Sea to Bremen. Yesterday it was reported that the ship had been held up by four British cruisers and was being conveyed into a British port.

One cable from London today even stated that the liner was in the harbor of Falmouth.

The disposition of the liner's cargo of gold is bothering several firms in this city. The gold was shipped by the following:

$5,000,000 from Guaranty Trust Company to London.
$3,000,000 from National City Bank to Paris.

$1,600,000 from Goldman, Sachs and Company to Paris.

The rate of insurance on the gold was approximately $50,000 on a million dollars.

At the German consulate, it was said that the gold would probably be returned to the shippers in this city. Later it was officially announced that the gold would be returned to shippers.

The Cunard line officials announced that they were constantly receiving telegrams from passengers on the liner asking for accommodations on the Lusitania which is due to sail tonight. The Cunard line has not replied as there is no certainty that the ship will have port.

GERMAN CAVALRY

Raiding Party Killed or Captured—

Other German Raiders Destroy Wires and Escape With Food and Horses.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 4.—A squad of German cavalry that invaded France early today north of Nancy was completely annihilated, fifty being killed and 75 being taken prisoners.

The raiding force entered France with the purpose of destroying the telegraph and telephone lines. They had reached Chavannes a little town fifteen miles from the border, when they were overtaken by a squadron of French cavalry sent in pursuit when their invasion was reported.

Seeking shelter within the houses of the village, they stood off the French troops for an hour, but finally their ammunition gave out and those that were left alive had to surrender.

The commander of the German soldiers blew out his brains rather than yield his sword.

Two German patrols who crossed the frontier in the Vesges mountains, destroyed numerous telephone boxes and cut the telegraph wires. They escaped to the border after their raid.

At Villetot the Germans have crossed the border three times, but on each attempt to penetrate the country have been repulsed.

Reaching the town of Lepux, the Germans seized all food supplies and horses that they could find. The inhabitants, left without food, have taken refuge in Belfort, women and children being compelled to walk sixteen miles in a heavy storm.

All the farms about St. All, near Belfort have been looted. The Germans killing and carrying away all the cattle and sheep.

Mail on American Liner.
By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The heavy American mail and the $250,000 in international money orders aboard the liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie at Bar Harbor will be rushed to New York city and probably be placed aboard the American liner St. Paul, sailing at 10 a. m. tomorrow for Plymouth according to a statement today by Superintendent of Foreland Mails Moxley. The post office has no transportation over the ten million dollar gold shipment aboard the vessel.

KRIPPLEBUSH.

Kripplebush, Aug. 3.—Kripplebush Council, No. 39, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold their ninth annual picnic on Labor Day, Monday, September 7, both afternoon and evening. There is a big list of attractions for the day, which will be published in the future issues of The Freeman.

Politicians are getting busy in their efforts to advance the candidacy of our fellow townsman, Supervisor Lemuel Bogart for sheriff. Great confidence is expressed that the loyal old Republican town of Marbletown will again have a sheriff after 62 years elapse.

The Misses Lucy, Alida and Pearl Osterhout of Poughkeepsie are spending a few days here.

The fox hound of George B. Christians has been lost or strayed away. Mr. Christians has made many unsuccessful efforts to find him and offers a liberal reward to the finder if he is returned. The dog is a spotted hound and answers to the name of "Murph."

Would Do Just as Well.

"Noo, John, what has I to bring ye frae the toon?" said a good wife to her husband as she was leaving to catch the train. "Hey," replied John, "ma snuff's all gone, an' I wad like ye to fetch me half an ounce." "Nay, nay," said the wife, "ye mustn't be extravagant; ye know ye've been off work a week, so ye mustn't use nae snuff. Jest tickle yer nose wi' a straw instead."

PLAN TO RELIEVE AMERICANS ABROAD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, August 4.—President Wilson today signed the bill providing $250,000 for the relief of Americans abroad.

Secretary of State Bryan is now preparing a bill providing for the additional appropriation of $2,500,000 and Secretary McAdoo will take it up with congress immediately.

Eighteen vessels flying the American flag are available for immediate use by this government in bringing American tourists from abroad, Secretary of War Garrison announced today. Twelve are army transports and six are of American registry under the International Mercantile Marine.

Secretary Garrison and Adolph Miller, member of the Federal Reserve Board, conferred on the available means of transportation. Later Mr. Miller had a conference with Secretary of State Bryan.

There are 21 army officers on duty abroad at the American embassies and legations and it was suggested by Secretary Garrison that they can be sent to open ports, such as Liverpool, Marseilles and Genoa, where Americans could be concentrated.

"The transportation problem can be solved in a very little while should the army be called upon in this emergency," said Secretary Garrison. "We are constantly in touch with all matters pertaining to transportation and I do not anticipate much trouble should our plan of action be acceptable to the state department."

"The fact that in addition to our ambassadors and consuls, we would have a representative of the U. S. government to whom tourists could apply directly and receive assistance will have a quieting effect upon those who just now seem to be in great distress."

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of State Phillips, Assistant Secretary of War Breckinridge, Captain Bristol, U. S. N., and Adolph Miller, were appointed a committee on ways and means, at a conference of representatives of the state, war and navy departments.

This committee will decide whether army transports, or fast cruisers should be sent abroad or whether the better plan would be to charter commercial vessels.

The fund deposited with the state department by relatives and friends in this country for Americans abroad today reached $329,462.

Lest you forget the big field day and picnic of the Jr. O. U. A. M. on Wednesday afternoon and evening, August 5. If stormy, next fair afternoon and evening. All welcome.

Echo Lodge is well filled with city people. Judging from the sound of the piano and singing in the evening, they are enjoying themselves.

The Rev. and Mrs. Coutant spent one day the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christiana.

Mrs. C. Winchell and children of Kingston are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay, George Krom is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Signor were in this place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Humes of New York are at the home of Mr. Barclay.

The Cottekill Reformed Sunday school will hold a picnic on the church grounds on Wednesday afternoon and evening, August 26. If stormy, the next fair afternoon and evening. There will be various sports and contests in the afternoon, a free entertainment in the church in the evening. Supper will be served from six p. m. A full line of refreshments will be on sale. All are welcome. Proceeds for benefit of the Sunday school and church.

Saturday evening, August 1, was a red letter night in the local council of the Jr. O. U. A. M., when Deputy Klender and a delegation of 25 from Charles DeWitt Council of Kingston paid a fraternal visit. The first and second degrees were conferred on nine candidates by the degree team of eWitt Council. In their usual flawless style. After the work, refreshments were served, followed by a smoker, toasts and speeches. The Kingston brothers departed for home at 11:30 p. m., loud in their praises of the hospitality of the members of No. 168.

A number from this village expect to attend the social to be held at Marlborough Church grounds on Friday evening, August 7.

Switzerland Mobilizing.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berke, Switzerland, Aug. 4.—Mobilization of the military forces of Switzerland has been completed. Able bodied men have all responded to the colors and every railroad bridge and mountain pass is occupied. Precautions have been taken to commandeer all available supplies of provisions and all means of travel. Even bicycles have been requisitioned.

Departed to Espous.

Dominick Coogan of Slightsburgh came to Rondout this morning to do some shopping which consisted mostly of wet goods. He was rounded up by Policeman Healey, and on his promise to take the next ferry across the creek he was allowed to go home.

Hog Market Lower.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, August 4.—The hog market at the local stock yards was demoralized today following yesterday's action of the bankers in limiting the amount of cash for the use of speculators. Hogs opened fifty cents below Saturday's prices.

LUSITANIA TO DEPEND ON SPEED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 4.—The Cunard liner Lusitania is being secretly fitted out at her pier and will sail tomorrow night with British reservists and hospital supplies. She will rely upon her speed to keep her out of the path of any hostile warships. This news leaked out at the British consulate this afternoon.

German Cruisers Off Coast.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, August 4.—The German cruisers Oden and Karlsruhe are cruising in the vicinity of the American coast. This report was brought here today by Captain Prager of the Belgian steamer Vanderland, of the Red Star line, who stated that two days ago the wireless operator on his ship heard the warships talking but that the messages were being sent in code.

Too Much Cargo.

Paddy Burns was picked up by Policeman Healey this afternoon and taken to the city hall lockup to sober up before being arraigned on Wednesday. Paddy had an elegant cargo aboard and could hardly navigate the Strand, and he also had a highly colored optic where some one had caressed him with a fist.

PLAN TO RELIEVE AMERICANS ABROAD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, August 4.—President Wilson today signed the bill providing $250,000 for the relief of Americans abroad.

Secretary of State Bryan is now preparing a bill providing for the additional appropriation of $2,500,000 and Secretary McAdoo will take it up with congress immediately.

Eighteen vessels flying the American flag are available for immediate use by this government in bringing American tourists from abroad. Secretary of War Garrison announced today. Twelve are army transports and six are of American registry under the International Mercantile Marine.

Secretary Garrison and Adolph Miller, member of the Federal Reserve Board, conferred on the available means of transportation. Later Mr. Miller had a conference with Secretary of State Bryan.

There are 21 army officers on duty abroad at the American embassies and legations and it was suggested by Secretary Garrison that they can be sent to open ports, such as Liverpool, Marseilles and Genoa, where Americans could be concentrated.

"The transportation problem can be solved in a very little while should the army be called upon in this emergency," said Secretary Garrison.

"We are constantly in touch with all matters pertaining to transportation and I do not anticipate much trouble should our plan of action be acceptable to the state department."

"The fact that in addition to our ambassadors and consuls, we would have a representative of the U. S. government to whom tourists could apply directly and receive assistance will have a quieting effect upon those who just now seem to be in great distress."

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of State Phillips, Assistant Secretary of War Breckenridge, Captain Bristol, U. S. N., and Adolph Miller, were appointed committee members and means, at a conference of representatives of the state, war and navy departments.

This committee will decide whether army transports, or fast cruisers should be sent abroad or whether the better plan would be to charter commercial vessels.

The fund deposited with the state department by relatives and friends in this country for Americans abroad today reached $329,462.

SELF PRESERVATION.

One of the most interesting phases of the European war is the eagerness with which men who have no interest in the quarrel and who cannot even understand it are volunteering to fight. Many thousands of our foreign born population are clamoring for steamship tickets to their old homes so that they may be shot to death or at least maimed for life. One despatch says that no less than ten thousand Canadians have offered themselves to fight for Great Britain, and as many more Australians are ready to march to battle. In Europe itself, outside of Italy, the fever for war has captured all classes, so that the supposedly strong influence of the Socialists has not been able to weaken the military strength of the nations to any noticeable degree. What are the motives which actuate these common men, who have everything to lose and nothing to gain?

Some of our exchanges, after considering this phenomenon, say that there is nothing but bosh in the often quoted saying that self-preservation is the first law of nature. That idea, in the form which is familiar to us, was first expressed by the poet Marvell in the Seventeenth century, in the line, "Self preservation, nature's first great law." The thought was not original with him, however, but had its origin in the brain of no less a personage than Satan himself, who, we read in the book of Job, remarked: "All that a man hath will he give for his life." The Devil has not been generally recognized as a leader of thought and his opinion on this subject was thought little of until Marvell revamped it. In fact, that great philosopher and keen thinker, Diogenes Laertius, some twenty-one centuries ago, wrote: "They say that the first inclination which an animal has is to 'protect itself.' The obvious implication is that men act differently, since they were not regarded by this writer as animals. On the whole, we have to side with old Diogenes against Satan and Marvell. When moved by passion a man will not give a penny—much less "all that he hath"—for his life.

Nevertheless, viewed from another angle, self preservation is Nature's law. But the old dame operates in a large way. As Tennyson puts it: "So careful of the type she seems, So careless of the single life." Nature is doing something big in Europe just now. We don't know what it is, and perhaps she doesn't, but it is tremendous just the same. She is preserving herself all right, and it is nothing to her if a million men are killed and crippled. She worries as little about them as a man does about the parings of his finger nails. "That which shall be is better than hath been."

Bryan's efforts to get his twenty-one peace treaties ratified by the Senate are, in view of recent events, a good deal of a joke. What do treaties amount to when they fail to prevent the invasion of peaceful countries like Belgium, Switzerland and Luxemburg? We had a treaty with Colombia when Roosevelt "took" the canal zone. Our treaty with Mexico did not prevent bloodshed at Vera Cruz. One will search the history books in vain for an instance of any treaty stopping a war. World-wide peace will never be established without a world police force which will operate just as does a city police force.

Much praise is due to the men in charge of the financial institutions in this country for the promptness and wisdom which they have displayed in averting a business catastrophe. The insane performances of European nations furnished all the materials for a panic such as this country never saw. Owners of securities might easily have been beggared and the soundest banks might have suffered runs which would have compelled them to stop business and settle at a great loss to all concerned. Fortunately, the danger point has been passed. There can be no panic. Those Wall Street fellows may not be such malicious chaps as the yellow press declares them to be.

A CAPTIVE.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Some of us are wondering if the story of the biggest, baddest elephant of all, which, the days and nights long, stands in the Bronx Zoological park, in New York, with one foreleg, one hindleg, chained to the floor, may unconsciously start a crusade for museums in place of menageries.

Many folk who have seen or read about the big jungle captive, monotonously swinging back and forth in his maddening confinement, two steps at a time, are emphatically expressing the belief that if the public really wants to be enlightened regarding the huge beasts and the lesser ones that roam the jungles they will do better to hunt the modern museums. There they will find animals, great and small, the fierce and the kitten-like kind, stuffed and mounted in characteristic attitudes, looking, for the world and all, as if they were reveling in their own native freedom. And in the menagerie all they see is an array of captives, some of them pacing in proud and terrible, but very real, submission, others dully resigned to their fate, but none remotely resembling, except in contour, the wild beasts of the forests, the jungles, the mountains and plains.

As for me, while not at all fond of the deep-throated lions, the big lumbering elephants, the untamable leopards, and all the rest of the wildlings that breathe the very spirit of the jungle, there is something that sort of pulls at the heartstrings just to watch the life-prisoners, pacing back and forth, sometimes defiant, sometimes restless and raging, sometimes actually sad, and always distressingly out of place.

It is said—how truly one does not know—that some of the captives eternally pine for the jungle and all that the jungle contains. Certain it is that there's a look in the eyes of some of them, a droop of the head, a something that seems to tell they are dreaming, in the animal way, of the beautiful freedom that once was theirs, of the far stretches of earth where they roamed, of the companionship with beasts of their kind.

And, watching the big captive creatures, one has asked over and over again, are the menageries scattered all over the country worth all that they cost, in animal spirits and dollars as well? For nobody doubts that caged beasts from the tropics are in unmistakable torture for many long years, nor does anyone doubt that cities pay a pretty penny or so for keeping them in captivity and variouly educating, amusing and startling the curious public.

As to Gunda, the big, cross captive is called vicious, treacherous, murderous and a few things more, but he may have reasons that nobody knows, reasons that possibly dropped down upon him the very moment he was captured in the jungle 10 years ago, or perhaps that gradually settled as the years grew longer and as his old-time companions grew fainter and fainter in memory. For eight years after he was brought here, a young ponderous wild thing from the jungles of India, he was patient as Job, and if he treasured any resentment he did not make it known. Then, something within him broke loose and as he stands alternately tugging at the two chains that bind him and swaying back and forth as a poor makeshift for exercise, he is the terror of the place. Or, he would be, if less securely bound.

So many protests have been made that quite likely poor, bad old Gunda will come into his own some time. But no, he cannot do that unless he is returned to the Indian wilds, else peacefully sent on his way to the land where elephants go when they bid farewell to the earth. But it is to wonder why all the elephants, the big tawny leopards and every beast that dwells in captivity do not rage and revolt like Gunda. Maybe then we would be content to let museums educate the public. Meanwhile, it is desperately hard to imagine what service the sorely tried beast is rendering, for, with ears torn where the rings have been and head worn bare in places where he has rubbed it up and down against the wall where he stands, he arouses pity, nothing else, unless it be the question: Is the tragedy worth while?

In the Philadelphia Zoological Gardens, Bolivia, a huge elephant from Africa was chained in his stall for 20 years when he dropped down and died, probably glad to quit a world that had treated him so unkindly. Gunda is just 18 years old, and since the average life of an elephant is about 20 years, his rebellion may be fierce and long.

Possibly the confession betrays a shocking lack of appreciation of the hosts of wild animals that inhabit the earth, but for a goodly number of years the conviction has been growing upon some of us that the world might easily dispense with the kind of education spread abroad by zoological gardens, menageries and similar places, for the sake of universal instruction in the great cause of kindness to animals.

ALMS BOARD MEETS.

Considers How to Collect 67 Cents a Week From Teslow.

Can a man afford to pay sixty-seven cents a week towards the support of his mother? Superintendent Thomas H. Edmonston believes so and has written to Joseph Teslow of White Plains, who has written that he is unable to do so, stating that if he does not pay that amount each week towards the support of his mother the matter will be taken into court. The action taken by Mr. Edmonston was approved by the members of the board of alms commissions at the city hall, on Monday evening with all the commissioners present. The mother in question, Mrs. Karl Teslow, is an old Polish woman who was admitted to the alms house on June 8 of this year.

It was later learned by Superintendent Edmonston that Mrs. Teslow was the mother of three able bodied women who he believed should contribute towards her support at the alms house and he took the matter up with Michael and Anthony, two of the sons who live in this city, calling attention to the fact that all they would have to pay would be sixty-seven cents a week. Both were willing and requested that bills be sent them monthly and they will pay them.

The third son, Joseph Teslow, was located in White Plains, and Superintendent Edmonston wrote him in regard to the matter. Joseph's reply was read by Mr. Edmonston in which it was stated that he found himself unable to meet his own obligations and that he had a wife and six children to support and was finding it hard to make both ends meet. He further stated that his wife owned the house in which they were living. As soon as business picked up he said he would be willing to contribute what he could toward the support of his mother.

Mr. Edmonston said that he did not think much of any man who was not willing to pay such a small sum towards the support of his mother and he had written to Mr. Teslow stating that he believed a man ought to be able to pay that sum each week and if he did not the matter would be taken up in court. Mr. Edmonston said he had not received a reply to his letter as yet. The board approved Mr. Edmonston's action in the matter.

A bill for $12 for the burial of a child in the alms house plot last July presented by E. A. Kelly brought to light a sordid story of shame. In explaining the bill Superintendent Edmonston said that the mother of the child worked in the cigar factory, and the father was unknown. Becoming in delicate health the girl went to a house on Clinton avenue and applied for a job at housework and the householder not knowing her condition took her in and her child was born the next day. Undertaker Kelly had not presented the bill to the board for payment before because he thought it was a county charge and had presented it to the board of supervisors who had refused to pay it as it was a city charge. The board decided to lay the bill over to the next meeting and if the parents of the child could not be found and made to pay the bill the board would pay it.

Superintendent Edmonston reported that owing to scarlet fever epidemic in July the board had given out $35 worth of provisions from the alms house during the month. In June only $13 worth of provisions were given out.

The hospital report for July showed 28 cases and 233 days treatment. At the present time there are 31 males and 22 females a total of 53 persons in the alms house.

Superintendent Edmonston made the following report for July:
Balance in city treasury,
July 6.....$ 8,452.35
Deposited with city treasurer, July 31.....18.00

Amount of bills audited, $ 2,289.63

Balance on hand.....$ 6,180.72
The board then adjourned.

Went Alone.

Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas enjoys the distinction of being the only member of the senate who has taken the oath of office without being escorted thither by another senator. Usually the sitting state colleague performs the service for the new man.

Mr. Clarke was elected to succeed the late James K. Jones. The struggle was of the character that leaves scars. Senator James H. Berry—dead within the past few weeks—had served for many years with Mr. Jones and in the campaign between Jones and Clarke was so partial to the former that when Mr. Clarke came into the senate to begin his services he did not ask to allow Mr. Berry to introduce him.

When some one suggested that he accept the escort of some other senator he refused saying: "No, if I cannot go down with my colleague, I will not ask any one else to go with me. I will go alone." And he did.—Washington Post.

A New Jersey teacher, who had been greatly annoyed by revelry in the hotel where she had spent part of her last vacation, took the precaution this time, in writing to another hotel which had been recommended to her, to inquire whether it had a bar. Hiram Held Back.

The bashful lover of the cabbage zone came up for discussion at a recent dinner and former Senator W. W. Chandler of New Hampshire told of Hiram and Abigail.

For 15 years Hiram had courted Abigail, calling twice a week and taking her to country dances and strawberry festivals, but in all that time Hiram said naught about leading the dear one to the altar.

Finally Abigail decided that Hiram was a trifle slow in proposing, and setting it down to his bashful nature, she decided to help him along.

Hiram, said she one evening to the bashful swain who was sitting in a far away corner of the parlor, "What do you suppose people are saying?"

"Derned if I know, Abbie," answered Hiram, thoughtfully. "They ain't predictin' a hard winter, are they?"

"No," blushing responded Abigail, "they are saying that you and I are going to be married very soon."

"Ye don't mean it!" was the unexpected rejoinder of Hiram. "Won't they be fooled good 'n' plenty when they find out that we ain't?"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Better Than a Deed.

Senator John W. Kern has a home in Indianapolis and another down in the mountain country in southwest Virginia, comprising about 300 acres. At Christmas it was the scene of a pretty little scheme which its owner carried out. In every tree were hung tiny baskets of seed and other bird food, so that the feathered tribe might enjoy the festival with the human kind.

In the place is a small cabin, surrounded by the usual patch of "garden sass," and in this humble abode are an old man and his wife. Simple and poor though it be, it has been their home for years, the same family having lived there since the time when Kern's father owned the farm.

This year the senator took a long walk around the farm and stopped to speak to the old man, who stood leaning on his rickety old gate and looking at the dull, autumn sky. When the man saw the senator he opened fire with the exclamation:

"I suppose you all's coming down here to take my little place, but you can't do it. Your own father, old man Kern, gave me a deed to it—I have it in my clock."

Now, the senator had no idea in the world of disturbing the aged mountaineer, but thought for fun to try him a bit.

"Well," said Kern, "if that is so, I will go in and look over it."

At this the man broke down and admitted that he had no deed at all.

"Well," laughed the senator, "that is all right. I had no idea of troubling you at all—you and your wife are free to live here as long as you live without paying a penny of rent."

And Kern struck out to continue his walk down the mountain path.—Washington Star.

MILK INSPECTION GREATLY NEEDED

Expert From New York Tells the Board of Health How to go About Systematic Inspection—How Milk May Be Tested

A special meeting of the board of health was held in the common council chamber at the city hall on Monday evening when Dr. M. B. McMillan of New York spoke on the inspection of food, especially milk. Those present at the meeting were Mayor Canfield and Messrs. McBrine, Higgins, Abel, Brown, Sanitary Inspector Quigley, Health Officer Steele, Secretary Kaplan and Plumbing Inspector Halloran of the board, E. N. Palen, president of the Municipal League and Dr. Van Hovenberg.

The mayor in introducing Dr. McMillan said it had been brought home very forcibly that the milk inspection was a problem with which Kingston ought to deal at once. There was a necessity for some work along those lines. The water supply was pretty good, a patrol having been established to protect the watershed, but thus far but little attention had been paid to the source of the milk which is consumed in Kingston.

Dr. McMillan said it was nothing but a direct affront to the general public that no attention had been paid to milk inspection. The principal dependents of the milk supply as a food product were the children. The city of New York spends $100,000 annually in the inspection of milk and he cited facts and figures to show that the infant mortality had greatly decreased owing to the strict supervision which the metropolis gives to this food supply. It has got to a point where the city has the science of milk inspection down pretty fine. Kingston should do something to bring about a lowering of the infant mortality and nothing would do it so quickly as proper care of the milk supply. It does very well to have clean-up days and other sanitary precautions but a properly regulated milk inspection will do wonders in reducing the mortality, especially among infants.

Sanitation, he said is of course necessary, but a proper food supply is especially to be desired. After looking over the field he had come to the conclusion that it was a fertile one right here in Kingston for improvement. It is almost a violation of law that there is no supervision. Kingston would have a regular inspector of milk and foods. On account of the fact that the milk supply was not so large the two offices could be combined and the inspector devote his entire time to it. After looking over the sanitary code recently adopted the doctor suggested that the score card for milk be changed so as to give forty points for equipment and sixty points for methods. Give the dairymen credit for his work and the money expended for equipment. Also give him credit for the sanitary methods pursued, the proper handling of the production and this was perhaps the most important. You will get better results if it is followed up. In Kingston milk is delivered perhaps from twelve to fourteen hours after production while in New York it is a much longer time between production and sale. If the proper methods are used in the handling better results will follow. All these things can be impressed on the farmer or dairymen if properly approached.

The details of cleanliness should be left to the inspector. He can put the milk in a bottle and white on the score card. A duplicate copy should be left with the farmer so that he can see where his effects are and correct them before a second inspection. He has the advantage of knowing what the inspector thinks of his dairy and it will also serve as a check when the inspector makes his second visit. This also gives the board something to work on. People will criticize public institutions, especially boards of health but if the board has some thing to show for it there could be no criticism possible. Some action has been taken as appears from the cards.

Speaking of inspected milk as it is termed in the Kingston code Dr. McMillan said he did not like the term. It corresponds to the grade A milk required by New York. All milk which comes to Kingston will not be inspected. The term is more or less misleading. The use of grades would be much better. This has been endorsed by the national commission on standards. A bacteriological limitation is necessary. The limit of 500,000 bacteria on raw milk has not indicated the grade. In New York the limit of 30,000 while 50,000 would not be too low for Kingston. It should be 30,000 for inspected or certified, grade A milk. This is for infant feeding. The adult does not need such a low content as he will overcome the effects of the bacteria. The mean average taken from a number of samples over a specified time should determine the content. In some instances the bacteria will run up from causes such as standing in the sun, frequent handling, dust from the streets, etc. One inspection would not give a proper average.

In the gradation of milk the board would have the privilege of throwing a producer from one grade to a lower one if he did not conform to the standard and if finally he did not comply when he has reached the lower grade his license should be revoked. It is dangerous to have bacteria in milk. That is recognized. We do not know the specific cause but we know it is dangerous. Most all milk in Kingston would fall into grade B as classified in New York.

It must be determined by a bacteriological test the content of any sample and for that a laboratory is necessary. If there is none here the samples will have to be sent to a nearby city for examination. Another suggestion which Dr. McMillan made and which met with the approval of his hearers was that the physicians taking care of contagious diseases on farms or dairies should report the same to the health officer of the city where the milk supply went as well as to the state department of health. He felt that the medical fraternity would co-operate with the board of health. He should also be requested to certify if the case was properly quarantined and the milk supply uncontaminated. In the granting of permits the speaker favored personal application to the board and the inspector could endorse on the back if any such application had been denied and the reason therefor. The transportation of milk should require a permit as in some instances people handled milk who did not sell it. This was particularly true in New York.

Dr. McMillan also suggested the sediment test. The filtration of milk by means of cotton would show in five minutes how much dirt there was in the milk. A good spirit of competition could be engendered among the farmers and dairymen when it was found out that John Jones had dirty milk and Bill Smith's milk showed up well in the sediment test. All would get busy and try to surpass one another. A record of these should be made and filed away monthly. He favored a system of envelop filling where every producer could be located at once. This should include all action taken in each individual case.

Regulations of the board of health should be prominently posted in every stable. A full outline of the requirements of the board would be at hand and the producer would know what sanitary conditions were required and there would be no excuse if he failed to live up to them. A set of requirements for the conduct of stores should be followed up and if the storekeeper does not comply he should not be allowed to sell. As a rule most of the stores selling milk do so as a side line. In the past the city of New York had required forty-two points as a minimum but now it is forty points. Below that no one should be allowed to sell milk. The city issues a bulletin every seven days showing the results of prosecution. People do not like publicity especially when it is adverse. He believed it would be a healthy practice to publish the results of the board's action against milk dealers but not right away. The individual should be given an opportunity to comply with the law.

Dr. McMillan showed a score card which New York would soon put in use for the scoring of bakeries, ice cream manufacturers and general stores. He said an inspector should get at least $12,000. The inspection should start at once. The inspector should cover the entire ground at least once in thirty days. In reply to questions the speaker said that in New York grade A was raw milk, grade B was pasteurized milk, and grade C was for cooking and manufacturing purposes. The latter should not be allowed over 1,000,000 bacteria.

Dipped milk, said the doctor, was the worst possible. Bottled milk was ideal. New York was fast eliminating all dipped milk. Dipped milk is exposed to dust, does not hold refrigeration as a rule, is subject to too much handling and sanitary conditions on the whole are not of the best. There were reports on the East Side he said, where it had not been entirely eliminated but this would be done away with in time. The city was making inspection so stringent down there that it was only a question of a short time when bottled milk would ultimately be used universally. There was no reason why Kingston should not require bottled milk only.

Some discussion followed the address of Dr. McMillan and all expressed themselves as much pleased with the frank comment which he had given to the code prepared. On motion of Mr. McBride the sanitary committee was directed to expend $300 for the inspection of milk. The board then adjourned.

10,000,000 MEN IN GREATEST WAR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 4.—Should the Austro-Serbian war develop into a general European conflict more than ten million armed men will oppose each other and the greatest war in the history of the world will be under way. What the results of such a war would be none can conjecture. Undoubtedly it would result in a complete re-adjustment of the map of Europe, and would set back European civilization at least half a century. The harm that would be done to trade and commerce, education and science cannot be estimated.

The great Russian bear boasts the largest number of soldiers. At the command of the Czar today are three great armies numbering 1,384,000 men. This is Russia's peace footing. Her war footing would bring her armies to the astounding figure of 5,400,000. Germany would not be far behind, this however, her war footing being about 4,550,000 and her peace footing about 791,000.

As far as can be seen now by European diplomats, the quarrel lies between Austria, Germany, Serbia and Russia. The latter great Slav empire is in honor bound to stand by her weaker Slav brethren, Serbia and Montenegro, and Montenegro seems to have let herself into the Austro-Serbian difficulties by agreeing to come to the aid of Serbia. With Russia standing by Serbia and Montenegro, Germany will come to the aid of Austria, with which country she not only is bound up by similar ideals and similar aims, but by strong blood ties and the triple alliance, which Germany, Austria and Italy formed.

Italy, apparently is the weak link in the chain of the Triple Alliance. Her navy is not feared by the big European powers and the value of her army is problematical. The Triple Entente, Russia, France and England appears to be very much the stronger, in the opinion of diplomats and military experts. England has not much of an army but her fleets are extremely powerful and together with the fleets of France would be relied upon to do much harm to German merchant marines and the coasts of the enemy.

But the war would not stop with Russia, Austria, Germany, Great Britain, France and Serbia. France, having been drawn into the struggle partly of her hatred for Germany over the Franco-Prussian war and the seizure of Alsace and Lorraine, and partly because she is a member of the Triple Entente, probably would take Belgium in with her. Belgium has no love for Austria and Germany and she is quite closely allied to France in many ways. Spain probably would remain neutral. Greece has already signified her readiness to aid Serbia and Montenegro. Turkey has indicated a desire to remain neutral, but it is doubtful if it would be possible for her to do so. She probably would have to ally herself with the Triple Alliance for her own protection against Greece and the Balkan nations, which would not miss the opportunity to attack their old enemy.

Bulgaria having been aided by Austria in the recent Balkan Wars would merge her armies with those of Austria and the Triple Alliance. This would bring Roumania into the conflict, as Roumania has several little difficulties resulting from the Balkan wars which she would like to settle with Bulgaria. While all of these little nations would be of some aid to the great European alliances, they scarcely can be figured upon as serious considerations. While their armies are composed almost wholly of veterans of the Turkish and Balkan wars, it also must be realized that they have suffered greatly from these wars and have not had opportunity to even partially recover before being plunged into another great conflict.

The situation then shapes up with Great Britain, France and Russia against Austria, Germany and Italy. Following is the latest information available of the fleets and armies of the six great powers:

ACCORD.
Accord, Aug. 3.—Gross Devoe and family of Albany are visiting H. L. Devoe and family.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Gang, who have been staying at Paul Lang's, have returned to their home.

The Rev. Mr. Voight gave a party of young people an auto ride Thursday.

Ralph Van Wageningen of Alliger-ville was in town Saturday.

David Wells has an injured foot as a result of stepping on a nail.

Benjamin Schoonmaker is marketing a large amount of sweet corn.

Walter Davenport's horse ran away from the station Saturday and landed under the M. E. Church shed, where it ran into Myron Markle's team and would have injured the team if the wagon had not struck the back of the shed. One wheel of the wagon was broken.

Joseph Lundy has engaged rooms at High Falls and will move there in a few weeks.

Mrs. W. H. Rose is gradually recovering her health.

William Purcell and sister, Mrs. Lizzie Wells, spent Saturday and Sunday at New Paltz.

The Country Life Club will give a social on the Reformed parsonage grounds on Friday, August 7.

ULSTER PARK.
Ulster Park, August 4.—The next regular meeting of Ulster Grange, No. 969, will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall Friday evening, August 7, at 8 o'clock. One candidate will receive the first and second degrees. The lecturers program follows: "Ode" contest; reading, Mrs. Edith A. Story; music, Miss Julia Churchwell; paper, "The Church as a Factor in a Rural Development," L. Herring; reading, Kenneth Krum; paper, "Modern Fashions," Miss Eva Wheeler. The annual picnic of the Grange will be held on the Strong farm on the Hudson river on Saturday, August 15. Every member is urged to attend and is entitled to invite two guests.

Don't forget the Reformed Sunday school picnic in Rodman's grove on Thursday, August 6. A good time is assured all who attend. Be sure to come and bring your lunch. If stormy the next fair day.

Next Sunday, August 9, Rev. C. Van Ostenbrugge of Flushing, L. I., will preach in the Reformed Church at 10:30 a. m., and in the Union Center Chapel at 7:30 p. m.

Absence of occupation is not rest. A mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—Cowper.

INDICATES WHERE GERMAN ARMY IS LOCATED WHERE RUSSIAN ARMY IS KEADED

HE CAN'T EXPLAIN TEAM'S RECORD SLUMP.
(Fred Clarke).

Pittsburgh, Aug. 4.—During all the fourteen years of its baseball battling the Pittsburgh team has never before, in August, found itself wallowing in the cellar position. Fred Clarke, who has been its manager all those years, says, "In all the years I have been manager it is the first time my club has been as low in the race at this season of the year. I can't account for the slump."

Too Many Books in 1600.

In bewailing the fact that too many books are published Mr. Heinemann echoes a complaint made over three centuries ago. Barnaby Rich, in his preface to "A New Description of Ireland," published in 1600, writes: "One of the diseases of this age is the multitude of books that doth so overcharge the world that it is not able to digest the abundance of idle matter that is every day hatched and brought into the world, that are as divers in their forms as their authors be in their faces. It is but a thriftless and thankless occupation, this writing of books. A man were certainly better to sit singing in a cobbler's shop, for his pay is certainly a penny a patch! But a book writer, if he get sometimes a few commendations of the judicious, he shall be sure to reap a thousand reproaches of the malicious."—London Chronicle.

A Masterpiece in Fragments.

Dr. Ohnefalsch-Richter, the famous antiquarian, writing in the Pall Mall Magazine on the ancient civilization of Cyprus, describes the chance discovery of a vase of the fourth century B. C. which ranks as one of the finest examples of ancient art ever found. "It first escaped the eyes of my workmen altogether," he writes, "when I accidentally found a single fragment in the earth dug out of a tomb. After a good bak-sheesh had been promised for each delivered fragment I succeeded in finding the whole vase with the exception of one small bit and in gluing together with my own hands the sixty-eight pieces and thus obtained the masterpiece of art." Today it has a place of honor in the British museum among the collection of Attic vases of the best period.

GERMAN TROOPS ON THEIR WAY TO THE FRONT.

German troops, made up of the best trained fighting men in the world, experts say, were met at the French border when they attempted to cross it, with such fierce fire that they retreated in disorder. This is the type of men that took part in the fighting.

Her Usual Remark.

"What did Mame say when her father gave her that new gold watch?" asked one gladsome girl.
"Oh, the same thing that she always says. She remarked that she was having a perfectly lovely time."—Exchange.

A Case In Point.

"Johnnie," said a teacher in a physiology class, "can you give a familiar example of the human body as it adapts itself to changed conditions?"
"Yes-sum," said Johnnie; "my aunt gained fifty pounds in a year and her skin never cracked."

Green Diamonds.

While a real emerald colored diamond is rare, those with a green tinge are quite plentiful. The Museum of Natural history in Paris has several examples of green diamonds, but Dresden has the most famous, and it is one of the five marvels of gems known to the world.

OUR LOCAL BANKS TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Adopt Resolutions Requiring 60 Days Notice of Withdrawal—Plenty of Money Here But the Banks Are Conservative.

At the request of the state superintendent of banks, Eugene Lamb Richards, the trustees of the three local savings banks on Monday evening adopted resolutions requiring sixty days' notice before the withdrawal of deposits from those banks.

The request of the superintendent of banks is made to all savings banks and private banks throughout the state of New York, and those which did not immediately comply with it are expected to do so today or tomorrow. Similar action is expected to be taken by savings banks of other states where a sixty days' notice may be required.

The action is due to the present European war conditions, and is a precautionary measure intended to conserve the currency for the domestic needs of the people of the United States.

The resolutions adopted by the different savings banks are phrased differently, but are all to the same effect. The resolutions by the trustees of the Ulster County Savings Institution most clearly state the reason for requiring sixty days' notice, and are as follows:

Whereas, the superintendent of banks of the state of New York, in view of the European situation and for the purpose of conserving currency for our domestic needs, has by communication dated August 3rd, 1914, requested all savings banks and private bankers in the state of New York to require a notice of sixty days before repaying deposits.

Therefore in compliance with such request, and in accordance with provisions of section 248 of the banking law of the state of New York it is hereby:

Resolved: that a notice of sixty days be required before repaying any deposit, and that no deposit shall be due and payable until sixty days after notice of intention to withdraw, shall have been personally given by the depositor.

John B. Alliger, treasurer of the Ulster County Savings Institution, today expressed the prevailing opinion of bankmen in an interview with The Freeman. Mr. Alliger said:

"The action taken by the banks is not due to any local conditions whatever, but on the contrary the resolutions requiring the sixty days' notice were passed only at the request of State Superintendent of Banks Richards, who, as stated in the resolutions and also in the letters which he has sent to all savings banks throughout the state, believes that such action should be taken for the purpose of conserving currency for our domestic needs."

"Sixty days' notice of withdrawal of deposits is not infrequently required by savings banks. The sixty days allows the bank, in case large demands are made, to realize upon the securities in which its funds necessarily are invested. In the present case, when business conditions readjust themselves, as they undoubtedly quickly will, the sixty days' notice would be likely to be withdrawn. If conditions should not change, the sixty days' notice might remain in force, and probably would remain until conditions were readjusted.

"With the interruption of business relations with countries of Europe, the United States must naturally feel the effects of the war, but expect to do more business than ever before when it is ended. It is a safe policy to have our currency for our domestic needs, and the resolutions adopted by the banks at Superintendent Richards's request will work for that end."

Ulster county does not seem to contain any men of the foreign nations now at war who are anxious to return to their native country to fight its battles. On the East Side in New York and in some of the other large cities of the state, the "reservists" have been preparing to respond to their country's call for their return home, and have been withdrawing their deposits to take with them. Such action on the part of the "reservists" now in America will be likely to receive a set back not only from the difficulty of securing return passage to their own countries, but also because of the sixty days' notice that now will be required by the savings banks before they can withdraw their deposits to take them to Europe.

Inquiry at the savings banks showed that there was no falling off in business today and deposits continued to be made as usual, deposits being made while the banks were being visited by Freeman reporters.

Joined by the Police.

While Miss Emily Lee, a dusky belle of Ponckhockie, and William Duffner of Kingston Point were sitting under a tree they were rudely aroused by the hand of the law and securely handcuffed together they were taken to police headquarters to await trial. When they reached headquarters the policeman, who had them in charge found that he had forgotten the key to his handcuffs and Emily and William sat on a bench side by side until the officer made a hurried trip to his home and secured the key when Emily was taken to the county jail and William, who is white, was allowed to go home on his promise to appear this morning. Both were arraigned before Recorder Grogan this morning and both were discharged. Emily was allowed to go to New York city to live as soon as she could raise carfare. She was given until the first of the week.

Clambake Landing.

SERBIAN DIPLOMAT'S AMERICAN WIFE TO ENLIST WAR NURSES.

Mme. Grouitch.

London, Aug. 4.—Turned back at the Austrian lines on her way to join her husband at Belgrade, Mme. Grouitch, American wife of the Serbian assistant Secretary of Foreign Affairs, is coming to London to organize a corps of volunteer surgeons and nurses to serve in the Austrian-Serbian war. Mme. Grouitch was formerly Miss Mabel G. Dunlap of Clarksburg, W. Va., the home of "Stonewall" Jackson. It was while a student of art in Greece in 1901 that she met Slavko Grouitch, then Serbian charge d'affaires in Athens. They were married in 1902 and have since lived in Belgrade, the Serbian capital.

AMERICANS IN PARIS HARD UP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, August 4.—Some of the 20,000 stranded Americans in this city reached such financial straits today that they were compelled to auction off their jewelry and other valuables so that they might have money for food and lodging in this city, where prices for all life's commodities have soared to a record mark.

The American colony here is being increased hourly by fresh arrivals from the French interior and from towns in Germany and Switzerland from which they fled at the first signs of war. They brought in tales of hardships encountered during the journey and of efforts made by the German frontier guards to detain them.

They also told of encountering huge German armies, moving in a fan-shape toward France. They gave it as their impression that it will be only a matter of hours now before the huge forces of the Kaiser cross the French border and engage in battle with the French troops massed near their own lines.

United States Ambassador Myron T. Herrick is doing everything possible to alleviate the condition of the marooned and penniless Americans. He has been able to secure lodgings for all those who have appealed to him, but the food problem is a hard one to solve. There is only about a week's visible food supply in the city and those who control it are loath to release it unless exorbitant prices are paid.

A cousin of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of President Wilson, is among the penniless here. Edward Chapman, a New York broker and his wife are penniless. They had $28,000 in travelers' checks in their trunk when they left Berlin, but en route to this city the trunk became lost and they are without means of any kind.

Frank H. Morton, of Chicago and Angell Field of Kansas City, were among the penniless arrivals here. They raised about $75 by auctioning off a watch and two diamond rings. The jewelry was worth $700.

Judge C. C. Craig and his wife of Chicago made unsuccessful efforts all day to get transportation to London and still are here. They offered five times the normal price for accommodations but could not secure them. Clarence Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph Company, with his two children was more fortunate and is now on his way to the English capital.

Some of the Americans arriving here from Geneva, Switzerland, declared that at the German border all passengers who did not have passports were put off.

There were a dozen Americans among the 60 odd who were not allowed to proceed on their journey. One of the trains was emptied at Lucerne and the passengers were dumped out to make room for the German soldiers.

Antwerp Passengers Land in Dover.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Dover, Aug. 4.—The liner Finland, bound for Antwerp, with 1,000 passengers on board, put in here today and landed her passengers. None of them could find accommodations in Dover and proceeded to Southampton. The liner also left for Southampton, instead of proceeding to Antwerp.

SERBIAN ARTILLERY ON ITS WAY TO BATTLE FRONT.

This photograph was taken at the beginning of the last Balkan war.

Vienna, Aug. 4.—The Serbian artillery, trained under expert Russian drill masters, is expected to furnish one of the strongest links in the defense chain Crown Prince Alexander has planned. The artillery wagons are moved through Serbia's mountain passes with speed that is remarkable. The invading Austrian troops will have difficulty in following the Serbian mountain artillery.

Doctor Speaks Out to Coffee Drinkers

The Boston Advertiser of June 15, 1914, quotes Dr. D. H. Kress of Chicago, in an address as saying that tea, coffee and cocoa cause more deaths than alcohol.

"These table beverages are sapping the life of our nation. They are making us a race of weak-kidneyed, weak-livered beings, unable to reproduce ourselves. The kidneys and liver do not perform their proper functions, and the waste matter left in the system tends to bring on arteriosclerosis.

"Statistics show conclusively that as the consumption of coffee, tea and cocoa have increased, the number of nervous diseases and insanity have increased proportionately."

This strong statement from a medical authority cannot be lightly disregarded.

It is easy to prove in one's own case whether coffee is the cause of frequent "spells" of nervousness, indigestion, biliousness, liver complaint, headache, heart disturbances and other ills.

OUR LOCAL BANKS TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Adopt Resolutions Requiring 60 Days Notice of Withdrawal—Plenty of Money Here But the Banks Are Conservative.

At the request of the state superintendent of banks, Eugene Lamb Richards, the trustees of the three local savings banks on Monday evening adopted resolutions requiring sixty days' notice before the withdrawal of deposits from those banks.

The request of the superintendent of banks is made to all savings banks and private banks throughout the state of New York, and those which did not immediately comply with it are expected to do so today or tomorrow. Similar action is expected to be taken by savings banks of other states where a sixty days' notice may be required.

The action is due to the present European war conditions, and is a precautionary measure intended to conserve the currency for the domestic needs of the people of the United States.

The resolutions adopted by the different savings banks are phrased differently, but are all to the same effect. The resolutions by the trustees of the Ulster County Savings Institution most clearly state the reason for requiring sixty days' notice, and are as follows:

Whereas: the superintendent of banks of the state of New York, in view of the European situation and for the purpose of conserving currency for our domestic needs, has by communication dated August 3rd, 1914, requested all savings banks and private bankers in the state of New York to require a notice of sixty days before repaying deposits.

Therefore in compliance with such request, and in accordance with provisions of section 248 of the banking law of the state of New York it is hereby:

Resolved: that a notice of sixty days be required before repaying any deposit, and that no deposit shall be due and payable until sixty days after notice of intention to withdraw, shall have been personally given by the depositor.

John B. Alliger, treasurer of the Ulster County Savings Institution, today expressed the prevailing opinion of bankers in an interview with The Freeman. Mr. Alliger said:

"The action taken by the banks is not due to any local conditions whatever, but on the contrary the resolutions requiring the sixty days' notice were passed only at the request of State Superintendent of Banks Richards, who, as stated in the resolutions and also in the letters which he has sent to all savings banks throughout the state, believes that such action should be taken for the purpose of conserving currency for our domestic needs."

"Sixty days' notice of withdrawal of deposits is not infrequently required by savings banks. The sixty days allows the bank, in case large demands are made, to realize upon the securities in which its funds necessarily are invested. In the present case, when business conditions readjust themselves, as they undoubtedly quickly will, the sixty days' notice would be likely to be withdrawn. If conditions should not change, the sixty days' notice might remain in force, and probably would remain until conditions were readjusted.

"With the interruption of business relations with the countries of Europe, the United States must naturally feel the effects of the war, but expects to do more business—in fact to do more business—than ever before when the war ended—it is a safe policy to have our currency for our domestic needs, and the resolutions adopted by the banks at Superintendent Richards' request will work for that end."

Ulster county does not seem to contain any men of the foreign nations now at war who are anxious to return to their native country to fight its battles. On the East Side of New York and in some of the other large cities of the state, the "reservists" have been preparing to respond to their country's call for their return home, and have been withdrawing their deposits to take with them. Such action on the part of the "reservists" now in America will be likely to receive a set back not only from the difficulty of securing return passage to their own countries, but also because of the sixty days' notice that now will be required by the savings banks before they can withdraw their deposits to take them to Europe.

Inquiry at the savings banks showed that there was no falling off in business today and deposits continued to be made as usual, deposits being made while the banks were being visited by Freeman reporters.

Joined by the Police.

While Miss Emily Lee, a dusky belle of Ponckhockie, and William Duffner of Kingston Point were sitting under a tree they were rudely aroused by the hand of the law and securely handcuffed together they were taken to police headquarters to await trial. When they reached headquarters the policeman, who had them in charge found that he had forgotten the key to his handcuffs and Emily and William sat on a bench side by side until the officer made a hurried trip to his home and secured the key which was taken to the county jail and William, who is white, was allowed to go home on his promise to appear this morning. Both were arraigned before Recorder Grogan this morning and both were discharged. Emily was allowed to go as she said, she was going to go to New York city to live as soon as she could raise carfare. She was given until the first of the week.

SERBIAN DIPLOMAT'S AMERICAN WIFE TO ENLIST WAR NURSES.

Mrs. Grouitch.

London, Aug. 4.—Turned back at the Austrian lines on her way to join her husband at Belgrade, Mme. Grouitch, American wife of the Serbian assistant Secretary of Foreign Affairs, is coming to London to organize a corps of volunteer surgeons and nurses to serve in the Austria-Serbian war. Mme. Grouitch was formerly Miss Mabel G. Dunlap of Clarksburg, W. Va., the home of "Stonewall" Jackson. It was while a student of art in Greece in 1901 that she met Slavko Grouitch, then Serbian charge d'affaires in Athens. They were married in 1902 and have since lived in Belgrade, the Serbian capital.

AMERICANS IN PARIS HARD UP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, August 4.—Some of the 20,000 stranded Americans in this city reached such financial straits today that they were compelled to auction off their jewelry and other valuables so that they might have money for food and lodging in this city, where prices for all life's commodities have soared to a record mark.

The American colony here is being increased hourly by fresh arrivals from the French interior and from towns in Germany and Switzerland from which they fled at the first signs of war. They brought in tales of hardships encountered during the journey and of efforts made by the German frontier guards to detain them.

They also told of encountering huge German armies, moving in a fan-shape toward France. They gave it as their impression that it will be only a matter of hours now before the huge forces of the Kaiser cross the French border and engage in battle with the French troops massed near their own lines.

United States Ambassador Myron T. Herrick is doing everything possible to alleviate the condition of the marooned and penniless Americans. He has been able to secure lodgings for all those who have appealed to him, but the food problem is a hard one to solve. There is only about a week's visible food supply in the city and those who control it are loath to release it unless exorbitant prices are paid.

A cousin of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of President Wilson, is among the penniless here. Edward Chapman, a New York broker and his wife are penniless. They had $28,000 in travelers' checks in their trunk when they left Berlin, but en route to this city the trunk became lost and they are without means of any kind.

Frank H. Morton, of Chicago and Angell Field of Kansas City, were among the penniless arrivals here. They raised about $75 by auctioning off a watch and two diamond rings. The jewelry was worth $700.

Judge C. C. Craig and his wife of Chicago made unsuccessful efforts all day to get transportation to London and still are here. They offered five times the normal price for accommodations but could not secure them.

Clarence Mackay, head of the Postal Telegraph Company, with his two children was more fortunate and is now on his way to the English capital.

Some of the Americans arriving here from Geneva, Switzerland, declared that at the German border all passengers who did not have passports were put off.

There were a dozen Americans among the 60 odd who were not allowed to proceed on their journey. One of the trains was emptied at Lucerne and the passengers were dumped out to make room for the German soldiers.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9984—A Dainty Model for a Best Dress or for General Wear—Girl's Dress With Lining and With Long or Short Sleeve.

As here illustrated, white batiste was used, with insertion and edging of "Val" lace. SERBIAN ARTILLERY ON ITS WAY TO BATTLE FRONT.

This photograph was taken at the beginning of the last Balkan war.

Vienna, Aug. 4.—The Serbian artillery, trained under expert Russian drill masters, is expected to furnish one of the strongest links in the defense chain Crown Prince Alexander has planned. The artillery wagons are moved through Serbia's mountain passes with speed that is remarkable. The invading Austrian troops will have difficulty in following the Serbian mountain artillery.

25,000 AMERICANS ARE IN LONDON

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 4.—Panic among the 25,000 Americans here increased today when it seemed practically certain that England would be plunged into the general European war and that practically all trans-Atlantic traffic would be suspended.

The condition of many of the Americans here is pitiful. Without funds and without friends, they have had to depend upon United States Ambassador Walter Page to help them secure food and lodging. Page is doing everything possible to help the needy ones, but the requests are flooding him. Each must take turns and those who have held off making an appeal until all other means failed may not be able to get relief for another 24 hours.

Some of the Americans here have had food for nearly a day. Last night many of them did not have the chance of lodging, and were compelled to sit up all night on chairs in hotel lobbies, railroad stations and the city parks.

However, this condition may be relieved before night. Prominent Americans here are herding together all their stranded fellow men and the committee appointed to care for those in most need has doled out sufficient funds to carry the penniless through for another day or two.

"Travel on the Channel boats is nothing short of hell," declared State Senator Hawes, of Pennsylvania, who was one of the last arrivals from Paris.

"Women and children are packed in like cattle. The boats are overloaded and those who travel on them must go without food and quite often without water during the entire trip."

Oscar Straus, the New York merchant, addressed the Americans at a meeting here and told them that worry was needless.

"The American government will work out a plan to get us back to our homes even if we can't get passage on ships," he said. "Let us make the best of the situation. It won't be long before our government sends help."

NORTH SEA BATTLE RUMOR

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 4.—A desperate battle between German and French fleets in the North Sea is reported in a despatch from Tynes. It says that English ships arriving at Tynes early today reported that a conflict was raging off Flamborough Head. The one said the ship's master told him that he saw German ships in combat.

A Modern Suburban Home

FIRST FLOOR

SECOND FLOOR

This is a very pretty gambrel-roofed cottage, of a type that has been growing in favor steadily in the past few years. It has beautiful lines, but is very simply designed.

From the porch you enter a square reception hall with artistic staircase and beautiful spindled and balustraded entrances to the living and dining rooms. Living room is well lighted and cheerful with pretty open fireplace. Dining room has a bay, and is a pleasant, good-sized room with a plate rail around it. There is a convenient pantry and well lighted kitchen with stairs to basement accessible both from kitchen and outside by a lobby.

On the second floor there are four bedrooms with good closets. Linen closet in bath room. Two low rooms could be planned in attic but in this case allowance would have to be made for staircase which would take space from one of the second floor rooms.

The exterior is shingled, but this house would look well with cement, pebble-dashed walls, which would add somewhat to cost.

First story, 9 feet. Second story, 8 feet 6 inches. Width 33 feet 6 inches. Depth, 53 feet 6 inches. Foundation, stone or brick; cemented cellar. Shingle roof.

For detailed plans and estimates of cost consult any local architect or builder whose advertisement appears on this page.

MONTENEGRO AN ODD LAND

Scratch a Native There and You Will Find a "Superintendent."

Montenegro is one of the oddest countries in the world. There the women are the producers, clothes make the man, the king is greater than the ministry, the chamber of the constitution, and a man may be imprisoned for eating hedgehog. A man who is struck may kill the striker provided it be done at once. If he delays he is punished as a murderer.

A Montenegrin's habit is as costly as his purse can buy, and there the apparel proclaims the man. The baggy blue trousers are the same for the king or the peasant, as is the bright sash which holds the invariable revolver. But from the red jacket and the red ingote one connotes whether the wearer be a man of substance and consequence or not. Among the women there are slighter distinctions.

The women engage in the productive pursuits, and yet the man has capacity and when taken from his bellcoose environment of his mountain home becomes one of the best of workers. His 500 years of freedom have given the Montenegrin a fine sense of order, and it is a current saying along the Dalmatian coast that when a Montenegrin applying for a job is asked what he can do he invariably answers, "Superintendent."

Respect for age is enjoyed by law, and in the articles regulating public conveyances it is provided that the traveler may have the seat indicated by his ticket, but it is added, "The deference due by youth to age requires that the former yield the better place to their seniors." Another article declares the equality of all before the law and lays down the democratic principle of the universal ownership of land and the equal right of all to hold office.

HOLDING THE BREATH.

Simple Heart Test Used in Administering Anaesthetics.

Dr. W. A. Schtange describes in the Roussky Vrach an easy test which he has devised to determine whether a patient who has been told that he must undergo surgical treatment is in condition to survive the administration of an anaesthetic. If the patient is unable to hold his breath for twenty seconds the indications are that his heart is so weak that he could not be subjected to the strain likely to be imposed by the anaesthetic.

General anaesthesia is particularly dangerous to persons suffering from myocardial changes, a condition which does not permit of ready recognition. For this reason the simple test suggested by Dr. W. A. Schtange will be welcome by the anaesthetist if extended experience should verify the doctor's assertions.

The test is based on the fact that a healthy person can suspend breathing from thirty to forty seconds. This, the author states, depends not on the lung capacity, but on the vigor of the heart muscle. In persons with weak hearts the time is shortened to twenty or even ten seconds. The patient, seated in a chair, is told to take a moderately deep inspiration and with the mouth closed to hold his breath as long as he can. The shorter the time the patient can suspend breathing the greater the danger of an anaesthetic, the latter being contraindicated if the time is less than twenty seconds.—New York Medical Journal.

Vast Forests of Alaska.

We hear much concerning the rapid disappearance of our forests. The vast timbered area of the eastern and central portions of the United States is fast being transformed into a woodless country, becoming very thickly populated, and doubtless will never grow much timber again. In Alaska, which is one of our territories, the timber area is estimated to be somewhere near 30 per cent of the entire land, and there is considerably more than 100,000,000 acres of good woodland, with timber that is of such a value its real worth cannot be estimated. It will require years to even make any marked impression on such a vast forest.—Philadelphia North American.

PLAYING GOLF.

The Game Demands Concentration, Yet Invites Sociability.

"One thing at a time, and that done well," is a very good rule in golf, as in many other lines of either work or play. I speak of this because golf is a game in which the relationship between players is a bit different from what it is in any other game that comes to my mind. It is a game which to reap the best results demands great concentration and yet a game which at times is played wonderfully well by those who seem to be paying scant attention to the task in hand.

The game one moment brings men together and next sends them apart, according to the direction in which they happen to hit the ball. Two men can start from the same tee, be two hundred or more yards apart after their drives and both be on the same green after playing their second shots.

It is a game which invites sociability and yet does not either demand or require it. One man can go out and play all by himself and thoroughly enjoy his game, or two men can go out, play a round together, neither speak a word between the first tee and the last green, yet both go into the clubhouse and declare they had seldom or never spent a more enjoyable time.—Francis Ouimet in St. Nicholas.

25 AMERICANS ARE IN LONDON

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 4.—Panic among the Americans here increased today as it seemed practically certain that England would be plunged into the general European war and the practically all trans-Atlantic trade would be suspended.

The condition of many of the Americans here is pitiful. Without money and without friends, they have been left to fend for themselves. Some have been able to secure food and lodging. Page is doing everything possible to help the needy ones, but the requests are flooding him. Each must take care of himself and those who have held off an appeal until all other means failed may not be able to get out for another 24 hours.

Some of the Americans here have had food for nearly a day. Last night many of them did not have the use of lodging, and were compelled to sit up all night on chairs in hotel lobbies, railroad stations and the city parks.

However, this condition may be relieved before night. Prominent Americans here are herding together all the stranded fellow men and the committee appointed to care for those in most need has doled out sufficient funds to carry the penniless through for another day or two.

"Travel on the Channel boats is nothing short of hell," declared State Senator Hawes, of Pennsylvania, who was one of the last arrivals from Paris.

"Women and children are packed in like cattle. The boats are overloaded and those who travel on them must go without food and quite often without water during the entire trip."

Oscar Strauss, the New York merchant, addressed the Americans at a meeting here and told them that worry was needless.

"The American government will work out a plan to get us back to our homes even if we can't get passage on ships," he said. "Let us make the best of the situation. It won't be long before our government sends help."

NORTH SEA BATTLE RUMOR

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 4.—A desperate battle between German and French fleets in the North Sea is reported in a despatch from Tynes. It says that English ships arriving at Tynes early today reported that a conflict was raging off Flamborough Head. The one said the ship's master saw him that he saw German ships in combat.

A Modern Suburban Home

This is a very pretty gambrel-roofed cottage, of a type that has been growing in favor steadily in the past few years. It has beautiful lines, but is very simply designed.

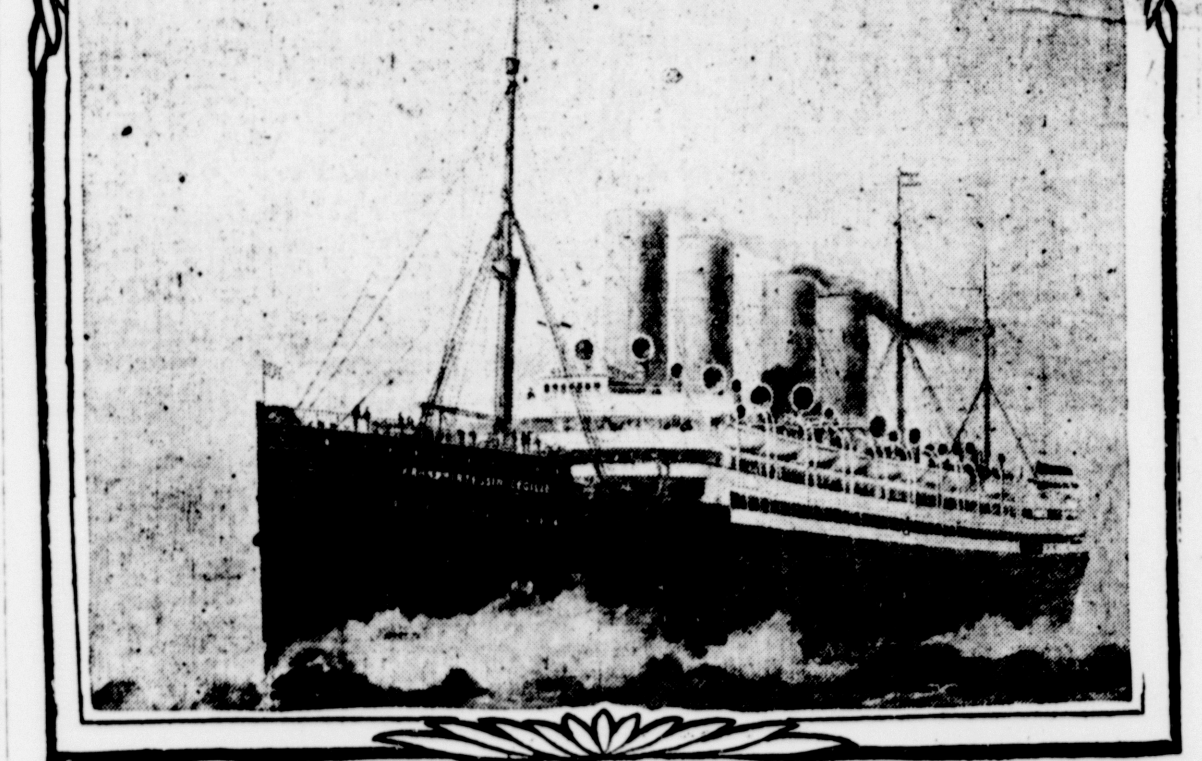

From the porch you enter a square reception hall with artistic staircase and beautiful spindled and balustraded entrances to the living and dining rooms. Living room is well lighted and cheerful with pretty open fireplace. Dining room has a bay, and is a pleasant, good-sized room with a plate rail around it. There is a convenient pantry and well lighted kitchen with stairs to basement accessible both from kitchen and outside by a lobby.

On the second floor there are four bedrooms with good closets. Linen closet in bath room. Two low rooms could be planned in attic but in this case allowance would have to be made for staircase which would take space from one of the second floor rooms.

The exterior is shingled, but this house would look well with cement, pebble-dashed walls, which would add somewhat to cost.

First story, 9 feet. Second story, 8 feet 6 inches. Width 33 feet 6 inches. Depth, 53 feet 6 inches. Foundation, stone or brick; cemented cellar. Shingle roof.

For detailed plans and estimates of cost consult any local architect or builder whose advertisement appears on this page.

MONTENEGRO AN ODD LAND

Scratch a Native There and You Will Find a "Superintendent."

Montenegro is one of the oddest countries in the world. There the women are the producers, clothes make the man, the king is greater than the ministry, the chamber of the constitution, and a man may be imprisoned for eating hedgehog. A man who is struck may kill the striker provided it be done at once. If he delays he is punished as a murderer.

A Montenegrin's habit is as costly as his purse can buy, and there the apparel proclaims the man. The baggy blue trousers are the same for the king or the peasant, as is the bright sash which holds the invariable revolver. But from the red jacket and the red ingote one can note whether the wearer be a man of substance and consequence or not. Among the women there are slighter distinctions.

The women engage in the productive pursuits, and yet the man has capacity and when taken from his belliose environment of his mountain home becomes one of the best of workers. His 500 years of freedom have given the Montenegrin a fine sense of order, and it is a current saying along the Dalmatian coast that when a Montenegrin applying for a job is asked what he can do he invariably answers, "Superintendent."

Respect for age is enjoined by law, and in the articles regulating public conveyances it is provided that the traveler may have the seat indicated by his ticket, but it is added, "The deference due by youth to age requires that the former yield the better place to their seniors." Another article declares the equality of all before the law and lays down the democratic principle of the universal ownership of land and the equal right of all to hold office.

HOLDING THE BREATH.

Simple Heart Test Used in Administering Anaesthetics.

Dr. W. A. Schtange describes in the Roussky Vrach an easy test which he has devised to determine whether a patient who has been told that he must undergo surgical treatment is in condition to survive the administration of an anaesthetic. If the patient is unable to hold his breath for twenty seconds, the indications are that his heart is so weak that he could not be subjected to the strain likely to be imposed by the anaesthetic.

General anaesthesia is particularly dangerous to persons suffering from myocardial changes, a condition which does not permit of ready recognition. For this reason the simple test suggested by Dr. W. A. Schtange will be welcome by the anaesthetist if extended experience should verify the doctor's assertions.

The test is based on the fact that a healthy person can suspend breathing from thirty to forty seconds. This, the author states, depends not on the lung capacity, but on the vigor of the heart muscle. In persons with weak hearts the time is shortened to twenty or even ten seconds. The patient, seated in a chair, is told to take a moderately deep inspiration and with the mouth closed to hold his breath as long as he can. The shorter the time the patient can suspend breathing the greater the danger of an anaesthetic, the latter being contraindicated if the time is less than twenty seconds.—New York Medical Journal.

Vast Forests of Alaska.
We hear much concerning the rapid disappearance of our forests. The vast timbered area of the eastern and central portions of the United States is fast being transformed into a woodless country, becoming very thickly populated, and doubtless will never grow much timber again. In Alaska, which is one of our territories, the timber area is estimated to be somewhere near 30 per cent of the entire land, and there is considerably more than 100,000,000 acres of good woodland, with timber that is of such a value its real worth cannot be estimated. It will require years to even make any marked impression on such a vast forest.—Philadelphia North American.

Making a New One.

"I've never tried 'em. Do they taste best fried or boiled?"—Baltimore American.

PLAYING GOLF.
The Game Demands Concentration, Yet
Invites Sociability.

"One thing at a time, and that done well," is a very good rule in golf, as in many other lines of either work or play. I speak of this because golf is a game in which the relationship between players is a bit different from what it is in any other game that comes to my mind. It is a game which to reap the best results demands great concentration and yet a game which at times is played wonderfully well by those who seem to be paying scant attention to the task in hand.

The game one moment brings men together and next sends them apart, according to the direction in which they happen to hit the ball. Two men can start from the same tee, be two hundred or more yards apart after their drives and both be on the same green after playing their second shots. It is a game which invites sociability and yet does not either demand or require it. One man can go out and play all by himself and thoroughly enjoy his game, or two men can go out to play a round together, neither speak a word between the first tee and the last green, yet both go into the clubhouse and declare they had seldom or never spent a more enjoyable time.—Francis Outmet in St. Nicholas.

ATLANTIC OCEAN RECORDS.
Vessels That Won Fame by Reducing the Time of the Trips.

In the early days of Atlantic steam navigation anywhere from ten days to a fortnight was used up between New York and England, and on the eastward voyage it was by no means unusual for some of the sailing packets of Grinnell and Minturn, red, white and blue swallowtail burgee, and of Tommy Tapscott, black ball on burgee and foretopsail, to beat the lumbering sidewheelers.

The first steamer to cut under the ten day voyage was the Persia in 1856, with 9 days, 1 hour and 45 minutes. This remained a record for ten years, until the Scotia in 1866, 8 days, 2 hours and 48 minutes, lopped off a whole day. Three years later the City of Brussels in 1869 established the seven day class, with 7 days, 22 hours and 3 minutes.

It was not until 1882 that the six day boat claimed the record, the Alaska, with 6 days, 18 hours and 37 minutes. The five day class was opened in 1889 by the City of Paris, with 5 days 19 hours 18 minutes. The first of the four day class was the Lusitania in 1908, with 4 days 15 hours. The record is now held by the Mauretania, with a passage in 1910 of 4 days, 10 hours and 21 minutes.—New York Sun.

AIRCRAFT TO PLAY GREAT PART IN EUROPE'S WAR.

Giant Zeppelin airship, (above) which will be used by Germany in her invasion of Russia, the English dirigibles Gamma and Beta, and General Joffre, the French war commander, who will have charge of the French aerial fighters. A French aeroplane is reported to have spent Sunday dropping bombs into German cities.

F. A. DELANO FOR RESERVE BOARD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 4.—President Wilson will send to the senate the name of Frederick A. Delano of Chicago, president of the Monon road, to be a member of the Federal reserve board. This fact was learned from a trustworthy source today. It was learned that a representative of the administration saw Mr. Delano in Chicago yesterday and at that time Mr. Delano asked for a few hours to consider the question of his acceptance. He sent word today that he was willing to take a place on the board.

A conference between Wilson, Senator Owen and Senator Lewis, was held today and it is understood that no objection was raised to his appointment.

Last Call.

Get ready for the grand excursion to Bear Mountain Park tomorrow. It is the popular—it is the people's excursion of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church. Take a day off and join the happy German throng. This excursion is very likely the last to leave our harbor this season. It will be the last but not the least. The steamer Mary Powell will leave at 8:30 a. m. sharp. Tickets will be sold at the dock before leaving, but it is advisable to secure tickets in advance. Eddyville yacht and trolley cars will meet excursion on its return.

MT. MARION.

Mt. Marion, Aug. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Willmott, Miss Edith Willmott and Mrs. Wyeth of Brooklyn were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Conyes.

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS ON A $68,000 STOCK

GREGORY & CO.'S AUGUST SALE BRINGS PRICE-CUTS OF 10 TO 40 Per Cent

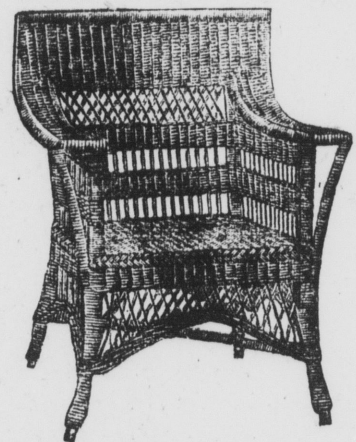

OUR August Sale, an annual event famous for years as the greatest of all mid-summer saving events, leads the way again this year to big economies on Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, etc.

It is neither accident nor chance that brings to a store the biggest business of its community year after year, with ever increasing success, as this August Sale has. The fame of its values has spread for many miles around Kingston, and purchasers flock to the event from all over Ulster and adjoining counties.

It is a sale for the homemaker who needs an extra Chair, a Rug or a piece of Carpet, or the concern fitting up a whole hotel. There are remarkable savings for the man who wishes an exquisite suite for his home, be it big or little; or the young couple who desire a modest, dependable, inexpensive Dining Room Suite.

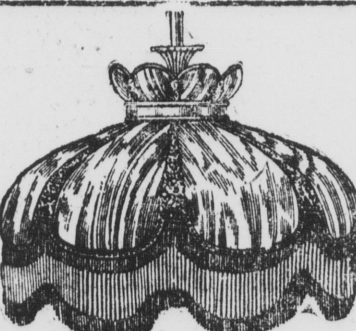

Our Annual August Sale has led all others hereabout in variety of designs and especially in the kinds of homefurnishings everybody wants. It has spread acres of home needfuls before the people and said, "Come and see what is here, and then go where you will and see what there is—for comparison is the life and inspiration of this event."

This year we particularly desire comparison, as never before have we had a stock that so pleased us—that will meet the approval of everyone who sees the goods.

F. A. DELANO FOR RESERVE BOARD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 4.—President Wilson will send to the senate the name of Frederick A. Delano of Chicago, president of the Monon road, to be a member of the Federal reserve board. This fact was learned from a trustworthy source today. It was learned that a representative of the administration saw Mr. Delano in Chicago yesterday and at that time Mr. Delano asked for a few hours to consider the question of his acceptance. He sent word today that he was willing to take a place on the board.

A conference between Wilson, Senator Owen and Senator Lewis, was held today and it is understood that no objection was raised to his appointment.

Last Call.

Get ready for the grand excursion to Bear Mountain Park tomorrow. It is the popular—it is the people's excursion of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church. Take a day off and join the happy German throng. This excursion is very likely the last to leave our harbor this season. It will be the last but not the least. The steamer Mary Powell will leave at 8:30 a. m. sharp. Tickets will be sold at the dock before leaving, but it is advisable to secure tickets in advance. Eddyville yacht and trolley cars will meet excursion on its return.

MT. MARION.

Mt. Marion, Aug. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Willmott, Miss Edith Willmott and Mrs. Wyeth of Brooklyn were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Conyes.

Mrs. Sara Vrooman and Miss Hazel Vrooman spent Saturday with Mrs. Snyder at Flatbush.

Mrs. Nora Jenkins is visiting her brother, F. Davis.

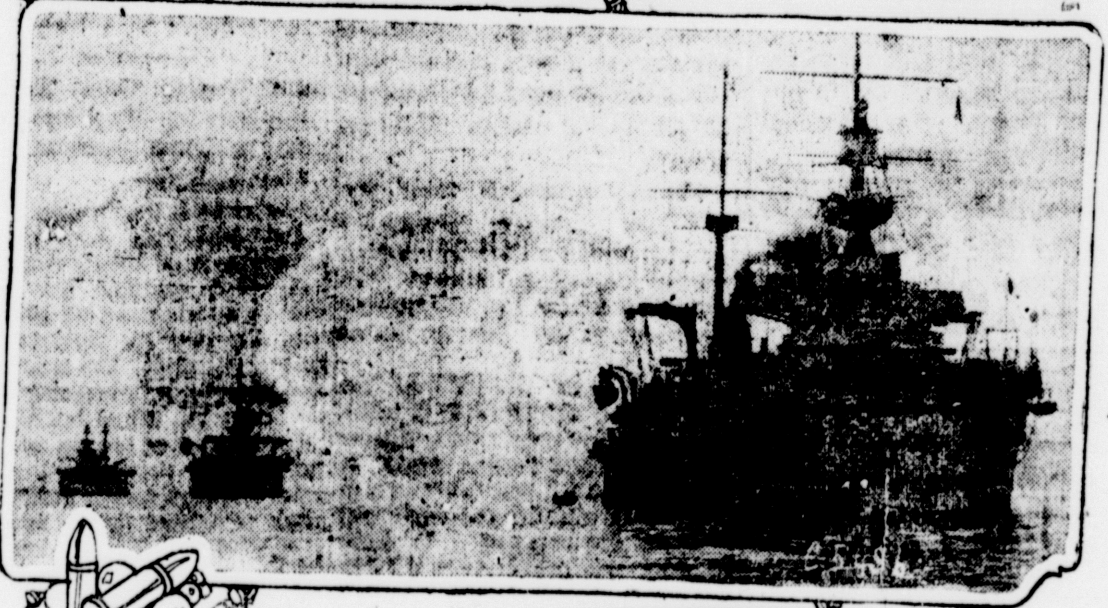

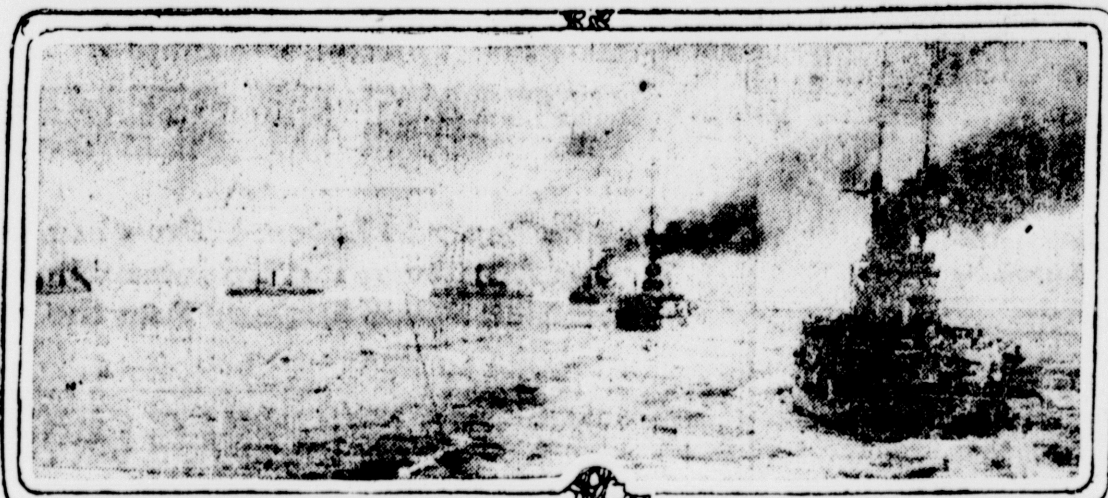

Mrs. George Pickle and sons are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thiry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dederick, Mrs. H. M. Whitaker and Mrs. R. H. Weeks of Kingston are motoring through the Adirondacks via Thousand Islands.

Burhans at Bull Moose Banquet.

Edwin Burhans, who expects to be the candidate for sheriff on the Bull Moose ticket if they have one this fall, left town today for New York city to attend a conference of the herd to be held on Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday Mr. Burhans will attend the banquet at the Astor House when the Big Stick is expected to make an address.

Other Treasure Ships Afloat.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 4.—With the Kronprinzessin Cecilie safe in Bar Harbor two other treasure ships are now giving local bankers and insurance agents cause for worry. One is the Oceanic of the White Star line bound for British ports with $2,500,000 gold aboard, and the other La Savole of the French line with $2,500,000 in gold bound for French ports. Neither of these ships have been heard from. They left New York last Wednesday.

BELGIUM WILL RESIST 'INVASION BY GERMANY'

Refuses to Reply to Latest Ultimatum and Troops Are Throwing Up Intrenchments—This Will Force England Into the War.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Brussels, Aug. 4.—Belgium today refused to answer an ultimatum from Germany demanding that it offer no resistance to German troops crossing its territory. The German minister was notified that the government considered a reply unnecessary, it having already stated its position.

The Belgian army is ready for war with Germany. Troops are working night and day throwing up intrenchments on the frontier. The authorities have seized the wireless equipment on the German school here.

London, Aug. 4.—Germany has sent another ultimatum to Belgium relative to that country's facilitating the movement of German troops. It is officially stated that this note is of "a very threatening character" and that Germany is prepared to carry through with force of arms, if necessary, the measures she considers essential.

This action by Germany will force England to enter the fray to defend the neutrality of Belgium.

GERMANY GAINS FIRST ADVANTAGE

British Cabinet Solid for War but is Proceeding With Usual Deliberation—King Urges that War be Averted.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 4.—Striking like a thunderbolt, Germany has gained an early advantage in the European warfare. Hurling her troops into Russia and invading the neutral Duchy of Luxembourg, she has occupied points of strategic value.

With her customary deliberation, England has waited until the last moment, but now she is ready to strike and strike hard. Whether her entrance into the conflict at this time will be able to offset the advantage gained by the quick blows struck by Germany is a matter upon which military experts differ.

There is no further doubt here that the cabinet is now solid for war. John Burns stood out to the last moment, refusing to alter his position, despite the fact that other members of the anti-war faction were swung into line by the German violation of Belgian neutrality. The announcement of his resignation made at 2 a. m., caused no surprise, as he had declared to his friends that he would quit the cabinet rather than be forced into the position of endorsing a warfare into which he believed England should not enter.

While the greater part of London was sleeping, having retired in the belief that today would bring a declaration of war, the cabinet was in session with Premier Asquith, in Downing street. A telephone line was in operation between the premier's residence and Buckingham Palace. Several times Asquith left the meeting and used this phone.

It is understood that King George had urged the premier to avert war if possible without hurting England's honor. The sovereign was kept thoroughly in touch with the situation, as much so, indeed, as if he had been present at the meeting.

The night meeting of the cabinet lasted until dawn and then the ministers went to their homes for a few hours' sleep. They were again summoned into session shortly before noon by Premier Asquith.

Viscount Morley of Blackburn, president of the council, was not present at this meeting and it was announced that he had resigned as a protest against his colleagues' determination to embark upon war.

While the cabinet was sitting, the Press Association announced that the government had been officially notified of Germany's invasion of Belgium and an official announcement was made that Germany had sent another ultimatum to Brussels.

After the ministers had been conferring for an hour, Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, left and went to Buckingham to see King George.

In an attempt to prevent a declaration of war by England, the German embassy issued a denial of the dispatches saying the Kaiser's troops had invaded Belgium.

While the cabinet was discussing the crisis, the order providing for the mobilization of the army was being read in the streets of London and other cities of the country. It was announced that the mobilization of the naval reserves had also been ordered.

While the decision as to war or peace hung in the balance today, eager crowds surrounded the newspaper offices waiting for the announcement to be made.

Italy Remains Neutral.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, Aug. 4.—Germany today appealed to Italy to alter its decision to remain neutral. Foreign Minister San Giuliano informed the Kaiser's envoy, Ambassador De Flotow, that Italy would not change her position.

GERMANS CAPTURE BRITISH STEAMER

British Warship Clears for Action and Sails for Magdalena Bay—May be Naval Fight Off Pacific Coast of Mexico.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

San Diego, Cal., August 4.—The German cruisers Leipzig and Nuernberg have captured the British steamer Queen Maud off Magdalena Bay, according to reports received here early today. The British warship Shearwater immediately cleared for action and left at full speed for the west coast of Mexico, where the British sloop Algerine and the Canadian auxiliary cruiser Rainbow are being threatened by the same German ships that captured the Queen Maud.

Commander Truesdale of the Shearwater said he had been notified that the Japanese cruiser Izumo was protecting the Algerine and Rainbow. The Queen Maud was bound from New Castle, Australia, to San Francisco with 6,000 tons of coal.

GERMAN AVIATORS PURSUED BY FRENCH

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 4.—Apparently aiming to strike at Paris itself and destroy that city with bombs dropped from the air, a fleet of German dirigibles and aeroplanes dashed across the border at midnight and penetrated to a point sixty miles with France.

There they sighted a squadron of French aeroplanes that had departed from Rheims, when word was flashed there that the Germans were making a sortie toward the capital. Rifle shots were exchanged, but without result so far as the war office has learned and then the German invaders turned and sped back to their own country.

The German airships are believed to have come from the aviation hangars at Metz, where they had been concentrating for a week. They crossed the frontier near Pagny and then proceeded southwest, passing over the Meuse river just south of the little town of St. Mihiel. Their motors were muffled, but not sufficiently silenced to escape the keen ear of a sentry, who reported to his commanding officer. Then news of the aerial raid was flashed to Rheims.

In expectation of an alarm at any time, the aviation corps there was ready for quick action and within ten minutes a squad of eight of the fastest monoplanes were hurrying through the air to meet the invaders. The French aviators caught sight of their foes just east of Demarville-sur-Yèvre. Rising high in the air, the French pilots attempted to get above the German dirigibles and then sweep down but were temporarily checked by the German aeroplanes, whose pilots fired rapidly while the dirigibles turned and sped northeast.

When the big war machines had obtained a good start, the German aeroplanes also wheeled and followed them, the fleet proceeding northeast with the French aviators still in pursuit.

In the meantime news of the aerial invasion had reached Paris and men were stationed at the quick firing guns on the fortifications.

The searchlight on the Eiffel tower and other lofty structures continually swept the heavens until word was received that the German airships were speeding toward the frontier.

Outing For Orphans.

Next week Tuesday will be a gala day for the little people of the Home of the Holy Childhood of this city, when they, their friends, and all interested in the institution will enjoy an outing to Kingston Point. Besides the trolley ride which will be part of the outing, there will be games at the Point and sports for the grown-ups. It will cost but a quarter to attend this pleasant outing and all the friends of the Home are urged to patronize the same, as this fund will be most valuable in helping to maintain the Home in the near future. This institution receives no help from city or state but is dependent upon its friends and well-wishers for the care of the children.

ELECTION NOTICE.

The adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company for the election of directors for the ensuing year will be held at the office of the company, 320 Broadway, in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 18th day of August, 1914, at 12 o'clock noon.

Dated Kingston, N. Y., August 4, 1914.

G. B. TEBOW, Secretary.

Flag Recovered.

Mrs. A. Peterson of West O'Reilly street has recovered her flag and pole that was stolen from her yard the other evening. It was learned by the police that the theft had been committed by a young man from New York city, who is visiting in the neighborhood and who stole the flag as a "joke."

Slight Damage by Bombardment.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

St. Petersburg, August 4.—Details of the bombardment on Sunday of the town of Libau by the German cruiser Augsburg were contained today in an official dispatch. The cruiser fired 20 shells, and did only slight damage. One of the shells struck the naval hospital but no one was hurt. The cruiser then departed.

German Aviator Drops Bombs.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 4.—A German aviator dropped three bombs over Luneville today from a height of 4,500 feet. His aim was poor and no great damage was done.

BELGIAN KING'S PATRIOTIC APPEAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Brussels, Aug. 4.—With all the members present for the first time in many years the Belgian parliament was opened today by King Albert in person. He addressed the Chamber of Deputies and senate in joint session making a patriotic appeal to his hearers.

"Never since 1830 has a situation involving our country been more grave," he said.

"It is imperative that we prevent Belgium being violated."

After giving details of the crisis provoked by the aggression of Germany, he concluded:

"Every Belgian must accomplish his duty and resign himself to all the sacrifices necessary."

King Albert's final appeal to Parliament was as follows:

"The Fatherland is in danger. Let me make my appeal to you my brothers."

"At this supreme hour the nation must be of one mind."

At this point he was interrupted by cries of "Yes, Yes."

When the chamber was quiet the King proceeded:

"I have called parliament where now there is but party."

"Long live independent Belgium" were the King's concluding words and he retired while ringing cheers sounded through the chamber together with the cry "Belgium will do her duty."

Baron De Broqueville, the Premier, then told of the German ultimatum and Belgium's reply. He declared that the government would not sacrifice the nation's honor, would resist by every means in its power the German government, and had so informed Germany.

"The government," he said, "has replied that it will employ force."

"The word therefore is to arms. Upon this land of ours we shall not weaken. Even if we are conquered we will never submit."

SCHANTZ MAY HAVE TO FIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. George Schantz of Kingston left some time ago to spend several months in Germany and are supposed to be still in that country. When Mr. Schantz came to America some time ago he still had over a year to serve in the German army. It is probable that he will be pressed into service in the present conflict as Germany keeps pretty good tabs on her former subjects. Mr. Schantz was formerly in business on the Strand and lately was a member of the firm of Schantz & Hapeman of North Front street.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, Aug. 4.—Topic for Christian Endeavor for Sunday evening is "Who is Free." John 8: 31-36. Leader will be Miss Edith Melk. Don't forget the Sunday school picnic Aug. 5th afternoon and evening. Muller's band of Kingston will furnish music. Come and meet old friends and help a good cause.

Mrs. Charles Niebergall returned to her home on Monday after attending the funeral of her aunt in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. George Lefever, who has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. O. K. Davis, at New Baltimore, returned to her home accompanied by her husband who went away on Sunday.

Miss Christina Hess of Kingston spent Sunday with her parents, Felix Hess and family.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hasbrouck and daughter spent a few days last week with friends at Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Castor and family spent Sunday with her parents, Felix Hess and family.

Coykendalls Marooned in London.

Among the Americans marooned in London on account of the crisis in Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Coykendall and Miss Coykendall of New York. Mr. Coykendall is president of the Cornell Steamboat Company. He left New York for a tour of Europe shortly after the funeral of Isaac M. North but was caught in London with the other tourists. The Tribune says he was one of the members of the meeting of 2,000 which met at the Waldorf in London Monday to devise ways and means of getting home and helping other unfortunate Americans to get accommodations across.

Mutiny on the Martin.

Ruotions were raised by members of the crew of the steamer Martin when she came in the creek on Monday afternoon. Some of the crew had been paid only a few days since and wanted more money for liquid refreshments. Their demands were refused by the captain and they struck. One Polack became so enraged that he threatened to jump overboard unless he was paid off. The affair ended by some of the deck hands quitting the ship and other men were engaged in their places.

At the Hospital.

Miss Mary A. Oulton of 102 Wurts street was taken to the Kingston City Hospital this morning to have an operation for appendicitis.

DIG UP CARL MORRIS TO MEET ENGLISH HEAVYWEIGHTS.

Carl Morris.
The love of the English for battles between giants rather than for bouts between clever boxers under 150 pounds has led to the digging up of Carl Morris "Oklahoma's" genial pachyderm, who is to be shipped to England to meet Bomb Wells and other English heavyweights. There is no surer indication of the English taste than that supplied by the figures on the Ritchie-Weiss bout compared with those on the bout between Colin Bell, a tenth rate Australian, and Bomb Wells, a few weeks before. The Ritchie-Weiss bout lost $17,000, while the Bell-Weiss bout played to a $28,000 house, which was $7,000 more than the gross receipts of the world's lightweight championship battle. Fight promoters figure that the Oklahoma Giant should prove a big drawing card in England.

His Safety Deposit Vault.

"Yes, my son is going to spend a few days in the city."
"He'll get bunked sure."
"Well, he's sure of car fare home. He's wearing a ten dollar bill underneath a porous plaster on his chest."
Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Innocent Victim.

"This food problem is something awful!" exclaimed the querulous man.
"Still harping on the high cost of living?"
"No, my wife has decided to reduce her weight. I wouldn't care what food cost if she would only consent to buy it."
Washington Star.

Somewhat Alike.

The Cruel Lie.

When Disraeli was nearing his end a young disciple said to him: "Master, what is the unpardonable sin? Is it not a lie?" The astute and subtle statesman, in the shadow of the grave, where he saw with the clearer vision, looked at the young man with deep, unfathomable eyes and answered: "No, a lie is not the unpardonable sin. The unpardonable sin is the cruel lie."

On the borders of that shadowy land where great things grow small and little things loom large on the horizon he had come to know that the crime that is not forgiven is the brutal instinct that impels us to wound, to embitter, to mortify.

Emerson's Style.

Emerson's style was tersely summed up in the words of his dear friend Thomas Carlyle. Wrote the "Sage of Chelsea" of his friend's way of writing: "It is pure, genuine Saxon; strong and simple; of a clearness, of a beauty, but does not sometimes rightly stick together. The paragraphs are not beaten into ingots, but beautiful square bags of buckshot held together by canvas."

PROCLAMATION OF NEUTRALITY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The U. S. today proclaimed its neutrality in the European war. The proclamation was signed and issued by President Wilson.

The proclamation reads:

"Whereas, a state of war unhappily exists between Austria-Hungary and Russia, and between Germany and France; and

"Whereas, the United States is on terms of friendship and amity with the contending powers and with the persons inhabiting their several dominions; and,

"Whereas, there are citizens of the United States residing within the territories or dominions of each of the said belligerents and carrying on commerce, trade, or other business or pursuits therein; and,

"Whereas, the laws and treaties of the United States without interfering with the free expression of opinion and sympathy or with the commercial manufacture or sale of arms or munitions of war, nevertheless impose upon all persons who may be within their territory and jurisdiction the duty of an impartial neutrality during the existence of the contest; and,

"Whereas, it is the duty of a neutral government not to permit or suffer the making of its waters subservient to the purposes of war;

"Whereas, it is the duty of a neutral government not to permit or suffer the making of its waters subservient to the purposes of war;

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the U. S. of America, in order to preserve the neutrality of the United States and of its citizens and of persons within its territory and jurisdiction, and to enforce its laws and treaties, and in order that all persons, being warned of the general tenor of the laws and treaties of the United States in this behalf and of the law of nations, may thus be prevented from any violation of the same, do hereby declare and proclaim that by certain provisions of the act approved on the fourth day of March, A. D. 1909, commonly known as the "Neutral Code of the United States," the following acts are forbidden to be done, under severe penalties, within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, to wit:

"1.—Accepting and exercising a commission to serve either of the said belligerents by land or by sea against the other belligerents.

"2.—Enlisting or entering into the service of either of the said belligerents as a soldier, or as a marine or seaman on board of any vessel of war, letter of marque, or privateer.

"3.—Hiring or retaining another person to enlist or enter himself in the service of either of the said belligerents as a soldier, or as a marine or seaman on board of any vessel of war, letter of marque, or privateer.

"4.—Hiring another person to go beyond the limits of jurisdiction of the U. S. with intent to be enlisted as aforesaid.

"5.—Hiring another person to go beyond the limits of the United States with intent to be entered into service as aforesaid.

"6.—Retaining another person to get beyond the limits of the United States with intent to be enlisted as aforesaid.

"7.—Retaining another person to go beyond the limits of the United States with intent to be entered into service as aforesaid. (But the said act is not to be construed to extend to a citizen or a subject of either belligerent who, being transiently within the U. S., shall on board of any vessel of war, which at the time of its arrival within the United States, was fitted and equipped as such vessel of war, enlist or enter himself, or hire or retain another subject or citizen of the same belligerent who is transiently within the United States, to enlist or enter himself to serve such belligerent on board of any vessel of war, if the United States then be at peace with such belligerent.)

"8.—Fitting out and arming or attempting to fit out and arm or procuring to be fitted out and armed or knowingly being concerned in the furnishing, fitting out or arming of any ship or vessel with intent that such ship or vessel shall be employed in the service of either of the said belligerents.

"9.—Issuing or delivering a commission within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States for any ship or vessel with intent that she may be employed as aforesaid.

"10.—Increasing or augmenting or procuring to be increased or augmented or knowingly being concerned in increasing or augmenting, the force of any ship of war, cruiser or other armed vessel which, at the time of her arrival within the United States was a ship of war, cruiser or armed vessel in the service of either of the said belligerents or belong to the subjects of either, by adding to the number of guns of such vessel or by changing those on board of her for guns of a large calibre or by the addition thereto of any equipment solely applicable to war.

"11.—Beginning or setting on foot or providing or preparing the means for any military expedition or enterprise to be carried on from the territory or jurisdiction of the United States against the territories or dominions of either of the said belligerents.

"And I do hereby further declare and proclaim that any frequenting and use of the waters within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States by the armed vessels of a belligerent whether public ships or privateers for the purpose of preparing for hostile operations, or as posts of observation upon ships of war or privateers, or merchant vessels of a belligerent lying within or being about to enter the jurisdiction of the United States must be regarded as unfriendly and offensive and in violation of that neutrality which it is the determination of this government to observe; and to the end that the hazard and inconvenience of such apprehended practices may be avoided, I further proclaim and declare that from and after the fifth day of August, instant, and during the continuance of the present hostilities between Austria-Hungary and Serbia and Germany and Russia and Germany and France, no ship of war or privateer of any belligerent shall be permitted to make use of any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States from which a vessel of an opposing belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war, a privateer or a merchant ship), shall have previously departed, until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last mentioned vessel beyond the jurisdiction of the United States. If any ship of war or privateer of a belligerent shall, after the time this notification takes effect, enter any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters of the United States, such vessel shall be required to depart and to put to sea within twenty-four hours after her entrance into such port, harbor, roadstead or waters, except in case of stress of weather, or her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, or for repairs; in any of which cases the authorities of the port or of the nearest port (as the case may be) shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of twenty-four hours, without permitting her to take in supplies beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use; and no such vessel which may have been permitted to remain within the waters of the United States for the purpose of repair shall continue within such port, harbor, roadstead, or waters for a longer period than twenty-four hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed, unless, within such twenty-four hours a vessel, whether ship of war, privateer or merchant ship of an opposing belligerent, shall have departed therefrom, in which case the time limited for the departure of the previous ship of war or privateer shall be extended so far as may be necessary to secure an interval of not less than twenty-four hours between such departure and that of any ship of war, privateer or merchant ship of an opposing belligerent which may have previously quit the same port, harbor, roadstead or waters.

"No ship of war or privateer of a belligerent shall be detained in any port, harbor, roadstead or waters of the United States more than 24 hours by reason of the successive departure of such port, harbor, roadstead or waters of more than one vessel of an opposing belligerent. But if there be several vessels of opposing belligerents in the same port, harbor, roadstead or waters, the order of their departure therefrom, shall be so arranged as to afford the opportunity of leaving alternately to the vessels of the opposing belligerents, and to cause the least detention consistent with the objects of this proclamation. No ship of war or privateer of a belligerent shall be permitted, while in any port, harbor, roadstead or waters within the jurisdiction of the U. S., to take in any supplies except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew, and except so much coal only as may be sufficient to carry such vessel if without any coal power, to the nearest port of her own country; or in case the vessel is rigged to go under sail, and may also be propelled by steam power then with half the quantity of coal which she would be entitled to receive, if dependent upon steam alone and no coal shall be again supplied to any such ship of war or privateer in the same or any other port, harbor, roadstead or waters of the United States without special permission until after the expiration of three months from the time when such coal may have been last supplied to her within the waters of the United States, unless such ship of war or privateer shall, since last thus supplied, have entered a port of the government to which she belongs.

"And I do further declare and proclaim that the statute of the U. S. and laws of nations alike require that no person within the territory and jurisdiction of the U. S. shall take part, directly or indirectly in the said wars but shall remain at peace with all of the said belligerents and shall maintain a strict and impartial neutrality.

"And I do hereby enjoin all citizens of the United States and all persons residing or being within the territory or jurisdiction of the United States to observe the laws thereof, and to commit no act contrary to the provisions of the said statutes or treaties or in violation of the law of nations in that behalf.

"And I do hereby warn all citizens of the United States and all persons residing or being within its territory or jurisdiction, that while the free and full expression of sympathies in public and private is not restricted by the laws of the United States, military forces in aid of a belligerent cannot lawfully be originated or organized within its jurisdiction; and that while all persons may lawfully and without restriction by reason of the aforesaid state of war manufacture and sell within the United States arms and munitions of war and other articles ordinarily known as 'contraband of war,' yet they cannot carry such ar-articles upon the high seas for the use or service of a belligerent nor can they transport soldiers and officers of a belligerent nor attempt to break any blockade which may be lawfully established and maintained during the said war without incurring the risk of hostile capture and the penalties denounced by the law of nations in that behalf.

"And I do hereby give notice that all citizens of the United States and others who may claim the protection of this government, who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and that they can in no wise obtain any protection from the government of the United States against the consequences of their misconduct.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this fourth day of August in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fourteen, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and thirty-eighth."

LOCAL BASEBALL DOINGS.

Games Played or to be Played by the Home Teams.

The senior team of the Y. M. C. A. will cross bats with the Leader team at the Athletic Field this afternoon at six o'clock. No admission will be charged.

The Middletown baseball team has released Skipper Eley, formerly of Hudson. He will probably go with Perth Amboy. Eley has not been hitting well this season.

The Winners of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church defeated the Loyal Workers of the same church in a hot contest game of ball yesterday afternoon the score being 12 to 10 in the Winners favor. A great deal of excitement was caused when Left Fielder Cranston hit the ball for a three bagger.

The Beavers defeated the American Stars to the score of 11 to 7 on Saturday. They played in the corn field. The battery for the Beavers was Richard Weber and Emanuel Yalum, pitchers and Max Mone, catcher. The battery for the American Stars was Midget Keegan and Perry, pitchers, and William Jordan and Mitten Katzen, catchers.

The Local A. C. challenge the Barmann A. C. to a game of baseball to be played off on McVey's field, Sunday, August 9. This game will probably show that the Locals are the winners of their series. Roche and Home Run Barth will be the battery for the Local A. C. Answer through the columns of this paper.

The game between the Leader and the Gas Company teams yesterday afternoon at the Athletic Field was close and exciting up to the eighth inning when the Gas Company allowed six runs to cross the plate. Both Zellmer and Zellmer, the Gas Company pitcher, received the support that the Leader team gave their pitcher the result would be hard to tell. At the beginning of the eighth inning the score stood 4 to 4, but with bad luck and poor head work the Leader team came to the front and won the game, the score being 10 to 4.

Saturday the Crescent A. C. of Walkkill won their 15th consecutive victory by defeating the Fitchfield nine by a score of 6-1. On the 4th of July Walkkill defeated this same team two games, one being a shut out. This season they have defeated the following teams: Walden Boys' Club, 2 games; The Rifton 1st team, 1 game; the Newburgh Leavestons, 1 game; the Montgomery A. C., 3 games; the New Windsor A. C., 1 game; the Fitchfield nine, 3 games; the New Paltz A. C., 2 games; the U. A. Klub, 1 game; They have been defeated by but one team, the Newburgh Royals, and they have a great reputation. The Crescent A. C. is composed of young men between the ages of 16 and 18 years. Every team that plays here goes away advertising this team by saying they get a square deal. Manager Caswell will try to arrange for a game with the Red Monograms of Kingston, also the 1st team of Walden. Any scout in search of a clean fast team come to Walkkill and your search will end.

THE JOINERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

The following lodges hold regular meetings this evening:

C. S. Clay Lodge, No. 528, I. O. O. F., in Pythian Hall corner of Wall and John streets.

Major Cornell Council, No. 765, Order of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, at 15 Hasbrouck avenue.

Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order United American Mechanics, at 5 Thomas street.

Rondout Lodge, No. 791, Knights of Honor, at 15 Hasbrouck avenue.

Star of Kingston, No. 35, Shepherds of Bethlehem, at 635 Broadway.

Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, I. O. U. A. M., will work the first degree on several candidates at their rooms, on the corner of Broadway and Thomas street this evening.

After the regular meeting there will be a joint session of the council and the lodge. Plans for the regular meeting to be held on the eleventh of August, when the Saurties Council and the Cottickill Lodge will be present, will be made. A committee of the council is making plans for a large clambake to be held some time in September. This is the first time that this lodge has undertaken a clambake and they are planning to make this first one a great success. All of the plans have not as yet been made.

DIED.

Funeral services from his late residence, Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment in Hurley cemetery.

MRS. CANTINE REACHES LONDON

War news from Europe is being read with great avidity by the many friends of Mrs. Charles F. Cantine of this city, Mrs. Lydia French of Saugerties and Dr. Elizabeth Bruyn of Saugerties, who have been spending the summer on the continent and did not expect to return home until the first of September.

According to their plans, Mrs. Cantine, Mrs. French and Dr. Bruyn were to have spent most of July in France, with headquarters at Paris. They intended to leave Paris Monday or today for London, where they intended to make their headquarters for awhile and then travel through England. Mail received in town today from Mrs. Cantine was mailed from Paris on Saturday, July 25, and did not contain any intimation of preparations of war there at that time.

A cablegram received at the offices of The Martin Cantine Company at Saugerties this morning announced the safe arrival of the party in London.

THEY SAY.

No longer will a passenger on a trolley car be carried several blocks beyond his destination because the conductor is discussing the affairs of the nation and the best way to settle the war in Europe with another passenger, for strict orders have been laid down by the trolley company to its conductors that in the future they shall confine their conversation strictly to answering questions addressed to them by a passenger.

This is by no means a new rule of the trolley road but of late it has not been enforced as many a passenger who has in vain attempted to attract the attention of a conductor to ask him to stop the car can testify. The company is to be complimented on its decision to enforce the rule in the future.

Trixy, the famous pet dog owned by George Main the harness maker on lower Hasbrouck avenue, is dead. Mr. Main said that since the death of his daughter, Kathryn, who was found dead in bed last April at the family home in Highland, Trixy has gradually worried himself to death. The dog will be greatly missed as he was a favorite with all who knew him.

John Reedy, the expert fisherman of Kingston, returned last night after a trip aboard the press boat John J. Timmens, which is with the New York Yacht Club fleet on its cruise. Mr. Reedy said before he started that the object of his trip was to see some race between the cup defence yachts Resolute and Vanitie. It is believed, however, that the real reason for his trip was to get some salt water fishing. Whether this is so or not Mr. Reedy went fishing on Sunday on the Timmens which anchored near Bartlett's reef light vessel off New London. About ten men on board had lines in the water and all had pretty good luck pulling in blackfish except the Kingston expert, who didn't catch anything until towards the end of the day, when he managed to land a fluke. He said later that he was not accustomed to salt water fishing and he didn't think it was much fun anyway. Mr. Reedy said that if any of the New York fishermen wished to come to Kingston for some real fishing he would be glad to challenge any or all of them to a fishing duel.

Judge Clearwater, who is following the European war movements closely, was deeply interested today when he learned that the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, carrying 10,679,000 in gold consigned to London and Paris, had dropped anchor at Bar Harbor, Maine, last night. The Judge has spent the summer for many years at Bar Harbor. He says he is thoroughly familiar with that harbor, and from his knowledge of the harbor and of navigation, in his opinion the captain of the Cecilie would have done much better to have anchored in the Rondout creek.

Greek Battleship Coaling. By Telegram to The Freeman.

Old Point Comfort, Va., Aug. 4.—The Greek battleship Kiliki, formerly the United States battleship Mississippi, is today being coaled and prepared to proceed at once to Villa France, there to join the battleship Idaho, also purchased by Greece. With these two vessels in the Mediterranean, where they rank among the most powerful fighting ships, the position of the enemies of Austria and Germany will be greatly strengthened.

Servians Repulse Austrians. By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 4.—A dispatch from Nish reports that Servian troops repulsed three Austrian regiments and forced them to retreat with heavy losses near Semendria. The Austrians were supported by heavy artillery but the Servians smashed them, advancing column. The dispatch adds that the Austrians, aided by a flotilla of 32 ships, had been trying vainly for six days to cross the river Save.

Concert at Lake Katrine. Kingston people will have an opportunity to attend the entertainment in Grange Hall at Lake Katrine on Thursday evening as an automobile stage will leave the central post office at 7:30 that evening. Dancing will follow the concert.

New Buildings Hidden. In St. Petersburg one never sees new buildings in the unsightly scaffold-pole stage, because until the building is finished it is hidden by a matchboard front, built like a wooden house, complete with windows. Inside this is all the ugly scaffolding, and so on.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Twisskill Club House with its decoration of goldenrod, crimson loosestrife and Queen Anne's lace was a most attractive place on Saturday.

Miss Adelaide Kennedy, assisted by Miss Anna Kennedy, Miss Mary Young, Miss Jeanette Sanford and Miss Doris Hasbrouck were the hostesses.

Chambers-Wright. On Monday afternoon a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wright, when their daughter, Mildred D., became the bride of Victor Eugene Chambers of Amsterdam, N. Y., at 1 o'clock. The bride party ascended the stairs to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march. The ceremony was performed with a ring by the Rev. G. M. Cranston under an arch of beautiful flowers and foliage in the presence of many relatives and friends. The bride wore a gown of white silk crepe de chene, with satin and pearl trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white asters and carnations. The bridesmaid, Miss Alice Wright, sister of the bride, was dressed in white silk trimmed with shadow lace and carried a bouquet of pink asters. The best man was Alfred Chambers of Nyack, brother of the bridegroom. After the ceremony a reception was given at which refreshments were served. The bride and groom were the recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts, consisting of cut glass, silverware, china, linen, furniture and checks. They left on the evening train mid a shower of rice and confetti, for a trip to Watervliet. The bride wore a blue traveling suit and white hat. Mr. and Mrs. Chambers have the hearty congratulations and best wishes of their many friends. After their honeymoon they will reside in Amsterdam.

IRISHMEN ARE VERY SCARCE

Real Son of Erin Cannot Be Found on Washington Team—Irish Stars Are Comparatively Few.

A recent fanning bee developed the fact that there is not a single Irishman on the Washington baseball club.

Can you beat it? Thirty-odd ball players and the only Irishman in the lot is half German! Griffith, himself of Welsh extraction, has a team of all nationalities, including a Cuban, yet he cannot produce a real son of Erin. Germany leads in the Washington ranks, with Schaefer, Altrock, Moeller and Engel as charter members. Johnson is of Scotch-English extraction, and the club has several members of this ancestry.

This state of affairs brings out an important question. Are the Irishmen fading out of the big league? There was a time when almost every star in the game was of Irish extraction, with maybe a Dutchman or an Englishman thrown in for good measure.

How few Irish names do you find among the stars of today. Look over the list of the real big fellows: Cobb, Speaker, Jackson, Johnson, Mathewson, Rucker, Tesreau, Bender, Plank, Alexander, Evers, Daubert, Baker, Knott, Wheat, Zimmermann, Oldring, Doyle, Chase, Archer, Meyers, McInnes.

There Is Such a Thing as Being Too Deliberate In a Game.

A great many players who are abnormally deliberate might find by experiment that they could play just as well, if not better, by speeding up a bit. When a golfer spends overmuch time in studying the line of his putt—for example, first viewing it from one side of the hole and then from the other, only to go back and have another look from the first side—he is really would have no influence over the ball's course if utterly disregarded. The imagination gets too much play and the mind has too much time for working up hesitancy and breeding lack of confidence. The best putters, as a rule, size up the situation quickly, then step up and hit the ball.—Francis Ouimet in St. Nicholas.

"You love him! But were you not already a consenting and even abetting party to the death which was intended for him?"

"That is true. I was willing that he should die for the sake of our cause, but as he is to live I shall live with him. Where he goes I shall go."

So together the husband and wife went to Reighazi.

AN ACT to amend the code of civil procedure, in relation to surrogates and the practice and procedure in surrogates' courts.

To render a notice of appeal effectual for any purpose, except in a case specified in the next section, or where it is specially prescribed by law, that security is not necessary to perfect the appeal, the appellant must give a written undertaking, with at least two sureties, to the effect that the appellant will pay all costs and damages which may be awarded against him upon the appeal, not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars. § 270. Costs and damages.—where decree is for money or delivery of property, etc.

In every case except one in which the letters of an executor, administrator or guardian have been revoked, or in which there has been a decree of appeal by an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, guardian or other person appointed by the surrogate's court, from distribute direct or indirect money or to contribute money, deposit money in a bank or trust company, or to deliver property; or by an executor or administrator from other granting leave to execute the decree of appeal as prescribed in section 1835 of this act, does not stay the execution of the decree appealed from unless the appellant gives an undertaking in the sum therein specified, to the effect that if the decree or order, or any part thereof, is affirmed, or the appeal is dismissed, the appellant will pay the sum so directed to be paid or collected, or, as the case requires, will pay the sum so directed to be paid or collected, or, as the case requires, will deliver the property, so directed to be deposited, distributed, or delivered, or the part thereof as to which the decree or order is affirmed.

An appeal from a decree or an order, directing the commitment of an executor, administrator, testamentary guardian, guardian, or other person, appointed by the surrogate, or of an attorney or counsel employed therein, for disobedience to a direction of the surrogate, or for neglect of duty; or directing the commitment of a person refusing to obey a subpoena or other process of the surrogate, according to law; does not stay the execution of the decree or order appealed from, unless the appellant gives an undertaking with at least two sureties, in a sum therein fixed, to the effect, that if the decree or order appealed from, or any part thereof, is affirmed, or the appeal is dismissed, the appellant will, within twenty days after the affirmation or dismissal, surrender, or cause to be surrendered, to the custody of the sheriff of the county in which the appeal was directed to be committed, a sum of money or other property, in the full

2. Amount and requisites of undertaking; action thereon

The sum specified in an undertaking, as described in either of the last two sections, must be fixed by the surrogate, or by a judge of the appellate court, who may require proof of property, or such other facts as he deems proper.

An undertaking, given as prescribed in the last three sections, must be to the people of this State, and must contain the name and residence of each of the sureties thereto; must be approved by the surrogate or a judge of the appellate court, and must be filed in his office, and may, at any time in his discretion, make an order authorizing any person aggrieved to bring an action upon the undertaking, in his own name, against the sureties. Such action may be prosecuted in the same manner, and with the same effect as an action upon an administrator's bond, and the proceeds of the action must be paid to the person aggrieved, the surrogate, or to among the persons aggrieved, to the extent of the pecuniary injuries sustained by them, and the balance, if any, must be paid into the treasury of the State.

2763. Power of appellate court; further

Where an appeal is taken upon the facts, the appellate court has the same power to decide the questions of fact which the surrogate had; and it may exercise its discretion, receive further testimony, and appoint a referee.

The appellate court may reverse, affirm, or modify the decision of the surrogate, and may, at its intermediate order, specify in the notice of appeal, which it is authorized by law to review, and as to all or all of the parties, to grant a new trial or a new hearing.

Upon an appeal from a determination of the surrogate, made upon a petition pursuant to § 2764, the appellate court has the same power as the surrogate, and its determination must be reviewed as if an appeal from the surrogate's decision. This application was made or appeal appealed from may be reversed, or restitution may be awarded, in the case required, as prescribed in the first of chapters 276 to 279, inclusive, of the Code.

§ 2764. Appeal; proceedings thereupon.

In the appellate division of the supreme court, the following procedure shall be observed:

from a court the
from a
court must be entered with the clerk the appellate division, and a certified thereof annexed to the papers transmitt upon which the appeal was heard, must be transmitted

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 4.—The "Anvil Chorus" in Cincinnati is tuning up again, after several months of inactivity, and already the grandstand managers are demanding the excommunication of Manager Charley Herzog.

When the Reds were up near the top in mid-June, and gave promise of holding the pace, the fans in the Ohio River City were so pleased with Herzog's work that they planned to present him with three or four of the largest producing breweries. But since the Reds hit the chutes, Charley can't even buy a beer in Zinzinnadi unless he wears a disguise.

The fans' greatest kick is because Herzog has made such radical shifts in the line-up, and because he is replacing them with new blood. The recruits don't seem to stack up as well as some of the veterans that Herzog sold or traded, but Herzog is confident that if given another year at the helm he will whip together a real ball team—and one composed, in the main, of young players with many years of usefulness before them.

In answer to the charges of the fans that he drove from the Red ranks such men as Marsans, Johnson, Davenport, Hoblitzler and Bates, Herzog says that the removal of these men from the Red line-up was the best thing that could have happened. He claims that most of these men were trouble makers and that their indifferent playing has been responsible, to a large extent, for the poor showing made by the Reds in recent years.

Garry Herrmann is uncommunicative just now as to what Herzog's fate will be this winter when the dear old directors get together and map out the 1915 campaign. Herrmann, it is said, is strong for Herzog's retention and may put up a fight for him in case there is any move on the part of the other directors to give Charley the gate.

Marsans isn't sorry that he jumped from the Reds. While with them he drew about $3,000 to $3,500 and he had to labor each and every day—when it didn't rain. But it's different now. Prevented from playing by a ruling of the courts, Marsans is acting as scout for the St. Louis Feds, is getting $6,500 a year, and doesn't have to do anything else but travel around the country and watch minor league ball games.

The mob scene in Julius Caesar will be rivaled this fall or winter when Freddie Welsh, lightweight champ, visits these shores. About one dozen of the likeliest looking battlers in this section of the world are expected to pick a quarrel with Freddie and they'll all be there or thereabouts when Freddie lands, each insisting that he be given the first chance to knock Freddie's block off.

Unless we reckon wrong, nobody will get a chance at Freddie in the ring at least for another year or so. As pointed out previously Freddie is an actor fellow now and actor's don't fight.

Honus Wagner may be sleeping, but it's only when a banana skin gets under his heel. The "Flying Dutchman" is holding this year in style just as brilliant as he did ten years ago. And he's traveling along his 42nd birthday.

Probably they've kicked up this rumpus in Europe so that they'll have an excuse for calling off the Olympic games in 1916, thus balking Uncle Sam in his ambition to conquer the world again.

It looks just now as if the batteries in the opening game of the world series will be—yep, that's right; same as before.

And the result will be the same as before unless it's a bit different. Bearing in mind the fact the worm twists around once in a while, don't bet too much loose change on the Athletics if they buck the Giants. John McGraw's tribe has grown sort of tired of being beaten.

Did He Slap Her?

The question of whether Deputy Sheriff "Towler" McCullough of East Kingston slapped the face of Mrs. Lizzie Bullock, colored, was not settled before Judge Mooney's bar of justice on Monday afternoon as expected for trial "Towler" moved for an adjournment for the purpose of securing a lawyer. Judge Mooney fixed the adjourned date to August 18. Edward McKinnon appeared for Mrs. Bullock.

Rock is in Jail.

Patrick Rock was arrested on Monday afternoon by Policeman Snyder for tormenting Mr. Kapron, who runs a peanut stand on the corner of Broadway and Railroad avenue. When Rock was placed under arrest he became abusive. This morning he was sent to the county jail to spend the next twenty days.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE MEETS

A meeting of the directors of the New York state basketball league was held in the Windsor Hotel in Troy Sunday afternoon and it was practically decided to open the playing season on the night of Friday, October 23, when Paterson will play here. The league will open the season with an eight club circuit and a franchise was awarded to Oswego. Amsterdam will undoubtedly be the eighth club and it is expected that it will make a formal application to the league. The eight teams comprising the league probably will be Kingston, Troy, Utica, Paterson, Gloversville, Cohoes, Oswego and Amsterdam.

The directors authorized Charles Stack of Troy, the league president, to request William J. Schafer, president of the Eastern league, to sound the managers in his circuit regarding their stand for or against a protective agreement between the leagues in a proposition calling for an agreement between the leagues not to engage players from one league unless they have been released by the team of either organization with whom the players were under contract, and if he finds them favorable to arrange for joint meeting of the managers of both leagues to be held early in September in New York city.

The directors approved the list of players under reserve, the records of President Stack showing that the following men are held under contract by the various teams in the league:

Kingston—John Pennino, John Beckman, Sam Carlett, James T. Clinton, Maurice U. Tonne, Joseph E. Johnson and J. C. Fuller.

Troy—John Inglis, Robert Vance, Andrew Soules, John Nugent, Charles Muller, Edward Wachter, Jr., Sid Burger and Flo Haggerty.

Cohoes—Louis Sugarman, Charles Diggane, Morgan O'Brien, John Noli, A. T. McKinstry, Charles Alberdane, A. J. Reich.

Utica—Jack Fox, Barney Sedran, William Cohen, Harry Franckle, Oscar Grinstead, Bradley Hall, Max Friedman.

Gloversville—Richard Leary, Mio Boggio, Roy Steele, Joseph Bruggs, Lester Holmes, J. Kenner.

Paterson—Harry Wallum, W. A. Lamb, Walter J. Swenson, C. C. Wright, A. Harvey, W. J. Ruckert, Garret E. Schmellk, Thomas Barry.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Aug. 4.—The "Anvil Chorus" in Cincinnati is tuning up again, after several months of inactivity, and already the grandstand managers are demanding the excommunication of Manager Charley Herzog.

When the Reds were up near the top in mid-June, and gave promise of holding the pace, the fans in the Ohio River City were so pleased with Herzog's work that they planned to present him with three or four of the largest producing breweries. But since the Reds hit the chutes, Charley can't even buy a beer in Cincinnati unless he wears a disguise.

The fans' greatest kick is because Herzog has made such radical shifts in the line-up, and because he is weeding out all the old stars and replacing them with new blood. The recruits don't seem to stack up as well as some of the veterans that Herzog sold or traded, but Herzog is confident that if given another year at the helm he will whip together a real ball team—and one composed, in the main, of young players with many years of usefulness before them.

In answer to the charges of the fans that he drove from the Red ranks such men as Marsans, Johnson, Davenport, Hobbitts and Bates, Herzog says that the removal of these men from the Red line-up was the best thing that could have happened. He claims that most of these men were trouble makers and that their indifferent playing has been responsible, to a large extent, for the poor showing made by the Reds in recent years.

Garry Herrmann is uncommittal just now as to what Herzog's fate will be this winter when the dear, old directors get together and map out the 1915 campaign. Herrmann, it is said, is strong for Herzog's retention and may put up a fight for him in case there is any move on the part of the other directors to give Charley the axe.

Marsans isn't sorry that he jumped from the Reds. While with them he drew about $3,000 to $3,500 and he had to labor each and every day—when it didn't rain. But it's different now. Prevented from playing by a ruling of the courts, Marsans is acting as scout for the St. Louis Peds, is getting $6,500 a year, and doesn't have to do anything else but travel around the country and watch minor league ball games.
